The examination is voluntary and intended for such persons as wish to prove their superior qualifications and are desirous of having Certificates of the highest grade granted by the Board of Trade.

The extra examination may take place when the Applicant is qualified to go up for examination for an Ordinary Master's Certificate, or at any time subsequent to his having passed the examination for that Certificate.

Extra Master, Navigation.

60. Examination in Navigation.—The Candidate will be required to work out and show the construction of any four of the problems,* prescribed for the Ordinary Certificates, and to satisfy the Examiner in the oral subjects prescribed for those Certificates. He must also be prepared to be examined in any of the following subjects, showing the construction of all problems† :—

(a) To work a lunar observation by either sun, star, or planet; and to compute the altitudes when they are not given.

(b) To find the latitude from double altitudes of the sun or of a star.

(c) To determine, from simultaneous observations of two different stars, the position of the ship, and the true bearing of the stars, by Sumner's method. The Candidate may either determine the four longitudes from the two assumed latitudes which will be given, or solve the question in any other way he may choose.

(d) To find the error of a chronometer from the altitude of the sun or of a star, observed with an artificial, or with the natural, horizon.

(e) To explain clearly in writing the principles of (1) Great Circle sailing; (2), Winward Great Circle sailing; (3) Composite Great Circle sailing; and their advantages and disadvantages.

(f) To show approximately on a terrestrial globe the Great Circle track and the distance from one given position to another; also the latitude and longitude of vertex; and the longitude from vertex; and to explain how the track can then be transferred to a Mercator's chart. Occasionally the Candidate will be required to lay the tract down on a chart.

(g) To determine the initial Great Circle course, and the distance, from one given position to another the latitude and longitude of vertex, the longitude from vertex and the latitudes and longitudes through which the Great Circle will pass; laying the track, composite or otherwise, down on a Mercator's chart, and explaining briefly how the course and distance from one point to another on this track is then found. This problem may, subject to the decision of the Examiner, be solved either by calculation, or by any tables, graphic method, or Great Circle chart, known to and preferred by the Candidate, and it will usually be set so as to leave the choice of method to the Candidate.

(h) To draw a figure, and write down the trigonometrical ratios.

(i) Right-angled plane trigonometry; deducing and writing down the formula for each computation in the problem given.

(j) Oblique-angled plane trigonometry; deducing and writing down the formula, or the rule, for each computation in the problem given.

* Either of the chart papers Exn. 9c or Exn. 9d may be given as one of these four problems.

† Two or three of these problems may usually be omitted, but all those set in the examination papers given to the Candidate must be worked.

(k) To give Napier's rules for circular parts for the solution of right-angled spherical triangles, explaining clearly how the different angles and sides are considered in deducing the formulæ.
(m) The laws of the deviation of the compass in iron ships. (see Appendix K, page 79).
(n) To construct a Mercator's chart.
(o) The law of storms. The Candidate to write a paper of what he knows of this subject.

He must be prepared to answer viva voce questions on the following subjects:—

(p) The leading principles of the construction of the sextant and of the vernier.
(q) The civil duties of a Shipmaster in which he will be expected to show a more extensive knowledge than a Candidate for an Ordinary Master's Certificate.

(a) A circle should be drawn projected on the plane of the horizon—unless the problem can be shown better otherwise—and a correct figure drawn in it, the magnitude of the sides and angles being estimated approximately by the eye.
(b) The sides and angles used in solving the problem should be marked by distinguishing letters in the figure, and the Candidate should for each fresh computation write down clearly what is given and what he is required to find, together with the formula which he proposes to use.
(c) Opposite each quantity in the computation he should put the letters denoting the part of the triangle which it represents, writing 'comp' before the letters when the quantity is the complement of that part of the triangle.

Candidates will not be required to enter into the mathematical investigation of the rules and formulæ used in the solution of problems, involving oblique-angled spherical triangles, but credit will be given to any Candidate showing such knowledge. When, however, a problem or part of a problem is solved by right-angled spherical trigonometry, the simple process of deducing the formula from the figure, by Napier's rules for circular parts or other method, must be shown.

Where a problem is solved by right-angled plane trigonometry, the simple process of deducing the formula from the figure for each of the computations in it must be shown.

The rule for finding the latitude by meridian altitude must be proved by the figure.

Result of Examination.

82. If he passes, the Report (Exn. 14) will be sent to the Port Officer, and the Certificate together with the Form Exn. 2 will be sent to the Government; the words "certified to have passed in steam," with the date and place of examination, will then be entered on the Certificate and its counterpart, and the Certificate will be sent to the Superintendent of the Mercantile Marine Office of the port named in the Form Exn. 2, and be delivered to the Candidate in the usual manner.

In case of failure.

83. If a Candidate fails, he may not present himself for re-examination until the expiration of three months from the date of failure.

Character of Examination.

84. The examination is for the most part vivâ voce, and extends to a general knowledge of the practical use and working of the steam-engine, and of the various valves, fittings, and pieces of machinery connected with it and of the way in which electric lighting is carried out on board ship. Intricate theoretical questions on calculations of horse power or areas of cylinders and valves, or any of the more difficult questions relating to steam-engines and boilers, will not be asked. The examination will in fact be confined to the duties which a Master of a steam vessel may be called upon to perform in the case of the death, incapacity or delinquency of the Engineer.

Practical knowledge required.

85. Examiners are to satisfy themselves that the Candidates know the names and understand the use of the various parts of engines and boilers and their connecting pipes, valves, cocks, &c. Practical knowledge, as distinguished from theories and abstruse calculations, is to be the test of the Candidate's fitness to have his Certificate endorsed.

Examination on boardship.

86. The Examiner should arrange to conduct part of the examination in the engine-room of a Steamship, unless from circumstances, he finds it impossible to do so; but in the event of the Candidate passing, the Examiner should state in writing what circumstances prevented a visit to an engine-room. If an opportunity offer, the candidate should be permitted, under the guidance of the Examiner, to start and stop the engine of some vessel which may have her steam up.

Place of examination to be reported.

87. The Examiner, in sending in his report of the examination, should state where the examination has been held.

Elementary questions to be answered.

88. Candidates will be required to give written answers to sixteen out of twenty questions taken from a book of Elementary Questions published by the Government.† These questions will be altered from time to time without notice The twenty questions are not to be difficult,

* See also Appendix N, page 92.

theoretical. or book questions, but are to be such as any man of ordinary capacity who has any practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam-engine ought to answer.

89. These questions, with the Candidates' answers, should be sent to the Government, with the reports, after each examination. Answers to be sent to Govt.

90. If a Candidate refers to any book or paper or memorandum, or obtains information from another Candidate during the examination, he will be treated as having failed, will forfeit his fee, and will not be allowed to be re-examined for a period of three months. Copying.

91. The Examiners will report, in the case of failure, the nature of the question or questions that decided the failure, or the point in the management of the engine in which the Candidate was deficient. Report on failure.

92. There is nothing in the regulations requiring that Applicants for the voluntary examination shall have served on board Steamships; all that is required is that they shall have a practical knowledge of the use and working of the steam-engine. Examiners will not fail to appreciate the fact, that practical knowledge is best gained in the engine-room; and the examination of an Officer who does not produce official evidence of service in Steamships, and of experience of engines, must necessarily be more searching than in the case of one who produces evidence of such service and experience. Service on Steamships not essential.

CERTIFICATES OF SERVICE.

93. A person who has attained the rank of Lieutenant, Sub-Lieutenant, Navigating Lieutenant or Navigating Sub-Lieutenant in Her Majesty's Navy, or of Lieutenant in Her Majesty's Indian Marine Service, is entitled to a Certificate of Service as Master of a Foreign-going Ship without examination. This Certificate will not entitle the holder to go to sea as Master or Mate of a Home Trade Passenger Ship. Persons qualified.

94. Applications for Certificates of Service must be made on a printed form, Exn. 18, to be obtained free of charge of the Registrar-General of Seamen, Custom House, London, E.C., or of the Port Officer. Form of application.

95. Applications for Certificates of Service by Officers of the Royal Navy on the active list must be made through their commanding officers, and applications from officers of the Royal Navy on half pay must be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who will, in either case, forward the application to the Board of Trade. How to apply.

Ambulance Certificate, &c.

96. Any person holding a Certificate from the St. John's or St. Andrew's Ambulance Association, as qualified to render first aid to the injured, can have the fact stamped on his Board of Trade Certificate or Certificate granted by an authority in British Possessions abroad by forwarding the two Certificates to the Government either direct or through the Port Officer. Ambulance Certificates.

Recipients of Government awards can also have the fact stamped on their Certificates on application in a similar manner.

CHAPTER III.

RULES FOR ESTIMATING SEA SERVICE.

97. In these regulations sea service is reckoned from the commencement to the termination of the voyage. The Certificates of Discharge for service in the Foreign Trade will generally be accepted as proof of sea service, but Certificates of Discharge for service in the Home or Coasting Trade must always be sent to the Port Officer for verification. The Port Officer and Examiners will be careful to see Sea service.

that these discharges have not been in any way tampered with, and will report any suspicious cases to the Government.

Sea Service for Foreign going Certificates.

98. For Foreign-going Certificates the term "Sea service" means, unless otherwise stated, service performed in Foreign-going Vessels.

Service in Home Trade.

99. For Home Trade Passengers Ship Certificates, service in the Home or Coasting Trade is regarded as equivalent to service in the Foreign Trade; but for Foreign-going Certificates, it is regarded as only equivalent to two-thirds of the time served in the Foreign Trade, except in the case of Indian Coasting Voyages extending beyond a distance of 500 miles from the port of departure in vessels commanded by Masters holding Foreign-going Certificates, when such service will count as foreign voyages, and will be reckoned as full time; but the time spent in the port of departure or Home Port will not be allowed to count. In all cases the length of service is deemed to commence on the date of sailing from the port of departure or Home Port and to end on the date of arrival at the Home Port Such service must be vouched for in the form laid down in Appendix P, page 106.

Certificate—Meaning of.

100. By the word "Certificate" is meant a Certificate of Competency granted by the Board of Trade under the Merchant Shipping Act, or by the Government of a British Possession under an Order in Council issued in pursuance of the Merchant Shipping Act. A list of the Colonial Certificates, referred to, will be found in Appendix T, page 119. They are of the same force as the corresponding Certificates granted by the Board of Trade.

Colonial Local Certificates.

101. The holder of a Colonial Certificate for Foreign-going Ship not granted under the Merchant Shipping Act, who desires to be examined for an Imperial Certificate of the same grade, must prove that he has performed the amount of service required by these regulations to entitle him to hold such a Certificate. He must also produce satisfactory testimonials as to character for at least the 12 months immediately preceding his application to be examined.

Foreign-going Certificates.

102. Where a Foreign-going Certificate is required in order to qualify a Candidate for examination, the Certificate may be either an Ordinary Certificate, or a Certificate for Fore and Aft-rigged Vessels, or a Certificate for Foreign-going Steamships.

Pilot defined.

103. The term "Pilot" in these regulations (see paras. 32 and 57) means a pilot who is employed in general pilotage, and holds a First Class Pilot's Certificate from some competent authority authorising him to pilot vessels outside harbour and partially smooth water limits. A Hooghly Master Pilot is for the purpose of this rule to be considered as First Class Pilot.

Officer's Service.

104. Officer's Service, to be recognised as such, must be performed with the requisite Certificate as specified in Appendix P, page 106. The Officer's service performed by men who have been duly promoted during the course of a voyage (see paragraph 108), or who, in consequence of serving in vessels plying between ports abroad, have been unable to obtain the necessary Certificates, may, however, be recognised, provided that it is in other respects satisfactory.

Foreign officers.

105. Foreign Officers who wish to apply for a British Certificate of Competency must in all cases have performed their qualifying Officer's service with the requisite British Certificate. The service may have been performed in Foreign Vessels if the Candidate can produce satisfactory testimonials to conduct and character, and is able to prove that the service has been in the required capacities, and that during the period of service he has held a British Certificate of Competency of the rank required by the regulations, (see paragraph 110).

In charge of a Watch.

106. When service "in charge of a Watch" in either the Foreign or Home Trade, is specified in the regulations, the Candidate will have to prove that during the whole of the time claimed he had the regular charge of a Watch or Watches, which, if in the Foreign Trade, must amount to not less than 8 hours of each 24 hours of service. It must be distinctly understood that occasional service in charge of a Watch will not be accepted as Mate's service under the regulations. Great care must be exercised by the Port Officer in regard to such service, and unless the Candidate produces a clear and satisfactory Certificate, specially setting forth the above facts, from the Master or Owner of the Vessel in which the service was performed, it must not be accepted.

107. Service as Additional or Auxiliary First Mate, or as Auxiliary Second Mate when a Third Mate is carried in large Foreign-going vessels will count as First Mate's or Second Mate's service, as the case may be, provided that the Candidate was entered on the Articles in one of these capacities, and that he was, during the whole time claimed, in charge of a Watch or Watches. Additional Mates.

108. Whenever a man has, from any cause, been regularly promoted, on the occurrence of a vacancy in the course of the Voyage, from the rank in which he first shipped, and such promotion, with the ground on which it has been made, is properly entered in the Articles and in the Official Log Book, he will receive credit for his service in the higher grade for the period subsequent to his promotion. Promotion during Voyage.

109. Service in a lower grade than First or Only Mate in the Home or Coasting Trade will not be recognised as Officer's service towards qualifying a Candidate for examination for a Foreign Trade Certificate. Officer's Service, Home Trade.

110. The testimonials of service of Foreigners and of British Officers and Seamen serving in foreign vessels, which cannot be verified by the Port Officer, must be confirmed either by the Consul of the country to which the ship in which the Candidate served belonged, or by some other recognised official authority of that country, or by the testimony of some credible person on the spot having personal knowledge of the facts required to be established. The production, however, of such proofs will not of necessity be deemed sufficient. Each case will be decided on its own merits, and if the sufficiency of the proofs given appears to be at all doubtful, it must be referred to the Government for decision. Evidence as to Service in Foreign Vessels.

111. Service in Auxiliary Screw Whaling Ships and in Vessels with auxiliary steam power, which use their screws only in calms or during light winds, is considered as service performed in Sailing Vessels. Auxiliary Screw Ships.

112. In the case of Excursion Steamers only such service as can be proved to have been performed at sea can be accepted. Excursion Steamers.

113. Candidates whose service has been performed in capacities other than Apprentice, Midshipman, Cadet, Ordinary Seaman, or Able Seaman, e.g., men who have served as Carpenter, or Sailmaker, or as Cook in small vessels where cooking is only a part of a man's duty, will be required to satisfy the Port Officer that they have, during the whole time claimed, performed deck duties in addition to their own particular work, and that they have a good knowledge of Seamanship. These facts may possibly be proved by the production of satisfactory Certificates from the Masters with whom the Applicant has served; but such service will only be accepted as equivalent to two-thirds of the time served as ordinary deck hand. Failing satisfactory evidence, the Applicant will be required to perform additional service in the capacity of Seaman. Service as Cook (under other conditions than the above), or as Steward, or as Purser, will not be accepted. Service as carpenter, sailmaker, Cook, Steward, &c.

114. Service performed exclusively in Trawlers and other deep sea-fishing vessels or in Pilot Vessels will not qualify a Candidate for examination. He must, in addition, prove the following service:— Service in fishing or Pilot Vessels.

(1) For a Foreign-going Certificate, service for at least eighteen months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign Trade, or the equivalent period (27 months) in the Home or Coasting Trade.

(2) For a Home Trade Passenger ship Certificate, service for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home, or Coasting Trade.

Service in Yachts.

115. Service in Pleasure Yachts will be accepted as qualifying service under the following conditions :—

(a) It must in all cases be verified by satisfactory proofs, which must set forth clearly and in detail the nature and duration of the service claimed, and it must be distinctly understood that only actual sea service will be accepted, and that service in harbour or port is inadmissible.

(b) Service in Foreign-going Yachts will be accepted in full; and service performed within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of not less that 50 tons net register or in Steam Yachts of not less than 80 tons gross register will be accepted in the proportion stated in para. 99; but Candidates must also show (1) For a Foreign-going Certificate, service for at least eighteen months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign Trade; or for the equivalent period (27 months) in an ordinary trading vessel in the Home or Coasting Trade. (2) For a Home Trade Passenger ship Certificate, service for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home, or Coasting Trade.

(c) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of 40 tons gross register, will be accepted towards qualifying a Candidate for a Foreign-going Certificate as equivalent to half the same time served in the Foreign Trade, but no amount of such service shall count as more than two years' service in the Foreign Trade, and no such service shall count as Officer's service to qualify Candidates for Foreign-going Certificates.

(d) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of not less than 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of not less than 40 tons gross register, will be accepted at the ordinary rate as qualifying service for Home Trade Passenger-ship Certificates, but Candidates must prove that they have in addition served for at least twelve months in an ordinary trading vessel in the Foreign, Home, or Coasting Trade.

(e) Service within Home Trade limits in Sailing Yachts of less than 20 tons net register, or in Steam Yachts of less than 40 tons gross register, not be accepted as qualifying service for any class of Certificate.

Service in Tugs.

116. Service performed in Tugs employed in Channel Service or outside partially smooth water limits (see Appendix S, page 112) may be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a Candidate for a Mate's or Master's Certificate for Home Trade Passenger Ships.

Service in dredgers.

117. Service in Steam Hopper Barges may, subject to the provisions of para. 119, be allowed to count towards qualifying a Candidate for a Mate's Certificate of Competency for Home Trade Passenger Ships, provided the Candidate can prove at least two years' service in an ordinary trading vessel in either the Home, Coasting, or Foreign Trade. Service in these Steam Hoppers will not be accepted as Officer's service towards qualifying a Candidate for a Master's Certificate.

118. Service in Light-ships or in an Engine-room will not be accepted as sea service. Service in Light-ships or Engine-room.

119. Service performed on rivers, no matter of what size, and service performed within smooth or partially smooth water limits (see Appendix 8, page 112) will not be accepted. Service on rivers.

Where any doubt whatever exists on this point, the Candidate will be required to produce a Certificate from the Master or Owner of the vessel in which the service was performed, before the service can be accepted.

120. Half the time served on board a training ship will be allowed to count as service at sea up to a limit of one year (i e., no length of service will be allowed to count as more than one year at sea), provided that the Candidate can produce a Certificate from the Committee that he has conducted himself creditably and passed a good examination in seamanship, so far as it is practised in the training ship, as well as in other matters, down to the time of his leaving the ship, but this service will not be regarded as equivalent to service in square-rigged vessels. Service on Training Ships.

121. The whole of the time claimed under Indentures of Apprenticeship will be accepted as actual sea service, provided (a) that the Indentures have not been cancelled through some fault of the Candidate, but are endorsed by the Owner or Master to whom he was bound, to the effect that he has performed his service faithfully during the time he remained as Apprentice; and (b) that the Candidate has served at sea four-fifths of the time claimed, that is to say, he has not spent more than one-fifth of the time in Home Ports. In cases where an Apprentice is qualified for examination before the expiration of his Indentures, e.g., where he has had training ship or other sea service prior to being bound, which, together with his actual time as Apprentice, makes up four years, or where his Indentures are for a period of more than four years, a letter from the Owner or Master will be accepted in place of the endorsement referred to above. Apprentices.

In the event of the Candidate being short of the required four-fifths of the time claimed as Apprentice out of the United Kingdom, he will be required to show sufficient additional sea service, either as seaman or junior officer, to make up the four-fifths of the time claimed.

122. The whole of the time served as Midshipman or Cadet will also be accepted as actual sea service, though the Candidate may not have been bound by Indentures, provided the service has been continuous, and that four-fifths of the time claimed as Midshipman or Cadet has been served out of the United Kingdom. Midshipmen and Cadets.

123. Service performed in the sea-going Steam Vessels of the Trinity House, of the Commissioners of the Northern Light-houses, or of the Commissioners of Irish Lights, will be accepted as sea service for the purpose of qualifying a Candidate for examination for a Home Trade Passenger Ship Certificate; but for a Foreign-going Certificate a Candidate must show in addition to this service at least twelve months in an ordinary Trading Vessel. In order to qualify a Candidate for an Ordinary Certificate, this twelve months must have been performed in a square-rigged Sailing Vessels. (See para. 25). Light-house tenders.

124. Officers of the Royal Navy are at liberty to apply for Certificates of Service and to be examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine, but the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty have directed that the applications of officers on the active list should be made through their commanding officers, and that the applications of officers on half-pay should be made to the Secretary of the Admiralty, who, in either case, will forward the application to the Board of Trade. In the case of Royal Indian Marine officers' applications to be made through the Government of India. Service in Royal Navy.

The conditions on which Certificates of service are issued are stated at page 29.

Qualifications required of Naval officers.

125. Officers of the Royal Navy or Royal Indian Marine who wish to be examined for Certificates of Competency in the Mercantile Marine will be required to prove the following service; and if an officer wishes to obtain the Ordinary Certificate for Foreign-going Ships, he must prove that at least twelve months of this required period was served under sail alone:—

(i) For Second Mate.—The officer must prove four years' service at sea, or that he has attained the rank of Acting Sub-Lieutenant.

(ii) For Only Mate.—Five years' service at sea.

(iii) For First Mate or Master.—The officer must prove that he has attained the rank of Sub-Lieutenant.

Service in Royal Naval Reserve.

126. Officers of the Royal Naval Reserve who perform sea service on board Her Majesty's ships in the capacity of Lieutenant or Sub-Lieutenant, will be allowed to count such service as if it had been performed on Foreign-going Merchant Ships; and the service will rank according to the Certificate of Competency held by the Candidate at the time.

Service in drill and harbourships.

127. If accompanied by a good report, half the time spent in Drill in the Royal Naval Reserve, and in Harbour Ships of the Royal or Colonial Navies, will be allowed to count as sea service, subject to the limit that no such service must amount to more than one-fourth of the time required for the particular grade of Certificate applied for

A DICTIONARY OF THE ECONOMIC PRODUCTS OF INDIA.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index is practically a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Index to ditto ditto, 8vo. Rs. 2. (4a.)
The above is out of stock.

His compilation of the Foká (Civil and Criminal law of Islam) is the most authoritative and his memory is still cherished by his co-religionists for his extraordinary learning and piety. Feb. 22nd	164	12mo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	......	The Author, Masjidbári Street, Calcutta.	Is an historical drama of which the plot is as follows:—The Queen Reziá who ascended the throne of Delhi in succession to her brother Raknuddin, had two generals, one a Hindu, named Vírendra Sinha, and another a Tartar, named Bakhtiyár. As the queen was unmarried, all her courtiers, including the two generals, had to lead a single life on pain of losing their heads. But Virendra secretly married Indirá, daughter of the Chief of Saurástra, whom her father had intended for his general Samarendra Sinha. For fear of offending the queen, Vírendra keeps his bride secluded within the walls of the fortress of Kusumpur and pays her secret visits. He rose high in the queen's favour, and had also a place in her affections. But unlike his Tartar colleague, he never cherished the ambition of becoming her husband. At an entertainment given in honour of the generals on their return from a successful expedition, the queen gave unmistakeable proof of her sentiments towards Virendra by presenting him with her own necklace and putting it round his neck with her own hands. But this made no difference in his attitude towards the queen. As regards Bakhtiyár, she rejected his advances with scorn and contempt. At this stage Virendra's secret leaked out, and his bride was secretly removed from the fortress by the queen's order. The queen next proposed to Vírendra, and being rejected, ordered him to be put to death, and her order was carried into effect. The Tartar had longed for revenge, and now joined the queen's rebellious half-brother Bairám, who also enlisted the sympathy and co-operation of Samarendra, the disappointed lover of Indirá. In the war which followed, the queen was defeated and taken captive. She committed suicide in prison, preceded by Indirá and Samarendra. The plot is borrowed from Scott's Kenilworth, and Reziá, Vírendra and Indirá stand for the Queen Elizabeth, the Earl of Leicester and Lady Dudley, respectively. The characters of Reziá, Vírendra and of the unfortunate lady Indirá are very well-drawn. The author is a good poet, and the play abounds with passages of real beauty and imagery.	5918
Mar. 12th	164	8vo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	1 4 0	Hari Dás Pál.	Often noticed. Like other books of this class, the present one is very indifferently written. The plot is taken from the Puránas.	5919

April 2nd	16	8vo dy	1st...	3,000	Printed.	0 1 0	The Author, Hugli.	Is a description of a journey to the shrine of Tárakesvar on the night of the fast of Sivarátri made by a fashionable lady and her husband. It is a series of realistic sketches. put together without any regard for decency and decorum.	5920
" 6th	130	12mo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 8 0	Hari Charan Chaudhuri, Rájgrám, Katulpur.	A Bengali translation in prose and verse of Kalidás's well-known drama. It is a very modest performance and can not lay claim to any special merit.	5921
Mar. 6th	56	12mo dy	1st ...	3,000	ditto ...	0 4 0	Haridás Pál.	Is a social drama of which the plot is as follows:—A man brings up an orphan girl and bestows some care on her education, in order that she may fetch him a large sum when married. She was allowed to remain unmarried till she was sixteen, when a proposal for her marriage was received from a professional match-maker. The bridegroom-elect agreeing to pay down Rs. 500 to the father, the date for the marriage is fixed. At this juncture, the girl leaves her father's house, and elopes with her lover, turning a deaf ear to the entreaties of her adoptive father. The latter accepts the situation with the reflection that his disappointment and discomfiture are a just penalty for his folly in entrusting the education of her daughter to the ladies of the Zenana Mission. The book is a somewhat coarse satire on female education and female emancipation movements. The Bráhmos, as is usual in such cases, also come in for their due share of ridicule and obloquy. It is very indifferently written and full of coarse and indelicate sentiments.	5922
" 14th	30	12mo dy	1st ...	500	ditto ...	0 2 0	The Author, 6, Dváraká Náth Tagore's Lane, Calcutta.	Is a comedy of the type of A Midsummer Night's Dream, of which the plot is as follows :—The god Indra having given himself up to the pleasures of music and dancing to the neglect of his duties incurs the displeasure of the mischief-making sage Nárada. The sage forthwith gets up a quarrel between the ruler of heaven and his consort Sachí by hinting at his secret amour with the heavenly nymph Urvasí. Sachí indignantly leaves her husband's presence and scornfully repudiates all his advances towards a reconciliation. Cupid and Spring are ordered to leave the precincts of heaven, which for a time wears a dismal aspect. At this stage, Rati sets out in search of her husband Cupid, and induces both him and his friend and companion Spring to come back to heaven. The re-appearance of Spring is proclaimed by the notes of the cuckoo and other birds, and by the return to new life of plants and animals. But Sachí still remaining obdurate, Cupid lets one of his flower arrows fly at her, and this produces the desired effect. Her anger and indignation melt away, and she longs for her husband's company. Indra again makes his advances, which are accepted this time. Heaven now resounds with joy and merriment, and all memory of the temporary misunderstanding is wiped out.	5923

1899.	Pages.					Rs. A. P.
Feb. 25th	164	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	Printed.	1 0 0	Vijay Krishna Mukherji.	An historical novel describing the conquest of Orissa by Kálápáhár under Suleman Keráni, the Páthàn ruler of Bengal. Kálápáhár was a Bráhman by birth and a pupil of Pandit Haradeva Nyàyaratna of Navadvípa. His original name was Niranjan, which was changed to Kàlàpàhàr on his conversion to Islam. While studying with Harádeva, he went to Tàndà, capital of Bengal, to complain to the king against the conduct of a certain Kàzí. But his suit was unsuccessful, and he was thrown into prison. He regained his liberty through the favour of the king's niece, Naziran, and married her with the king's consent. Becoming thus a Muhammadan, apparently, through no fault of his own, he vowed eternal vengeance on the gods and goddesses, who had rewarded, as he thought, his life-long devotion to them with dishonour, degradation and loss of caste. Henceforward, he came to be known as the deadliest enemy of Hindu idolatry. At the time when the story opens, he was entrusted with an expedition against Orissa. Whilst preparations for the expedition were being made, his brother Prabhàt went to Orissa with a vow to lay down his life in the cause of Hindu religion and independence. Thus the brothers went on working at cross-purposes. At Puri Prabhátá met with a Bengali girl, who, as it turned out afterwards, was no other than Haradev's daughter, whom the father was forced to leave behind, while attacked by dacoits at Bhuvaneswar. The young people had began to love each other when Prabhàt was called to Jajpur and elected commander-in-chief of the Uriya army. In the war which followed, he faught bravely and performed prodigies of valour, but was defeated and taken captive in the end. He was brought before his victorious brother, recognised and set free with honour. Ushà, as Haradev's lost daughter was named, had also been taken captive and shared the same prison cell with her lover. She also was recognised and made over to her father Haradeva, who had followed his ex-pupil to Orissa, in the hope of recovering his daughter some day. She was married to Prabhàt, and the latter declared heir to the conqueror of Orissa. In the midst of these acts of amnesty, Kálápáhár died of the wound received in the late war, and was followed by his faithful Naziran. His death brings the story to a close. The plot is well conceived and well-conducted, and the delineation of the characters of Ushá, Kálápáhár and Prabhát shows considerable art and skill. The book is written in good Bengali.	5926
1898 Dec. 2nd	122	12mo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 12 0	......	Is a collection of five short stories, of which the longest and perhaps the most interesting is that headed Yogamáyá. It is the story of a lady with hypnotic powers, named Yogamáyá and a crack-brained scientist, named Páglábábá, whose sole aim in life was to revive the dead and to make the living immortal. Yogamáyá met Vasanta Kumár at Beneras and fell in love with him. But Vasanta had set his heart on Prabhávatí and did not care to return Yogamáyá's attention. He had however, lost all trace of Prabhávatí and sought the aid of Yogamáyá in finding her whereabouts. The latter, who also wanted Prabhávatí on her own account, found her out with the aid of Páglábábá and delivered her up to him hypnotised. Páglabábá had invented a new apparatus for the circulation of blood, and wanted human blood to work it. So Prabhávatí was freely bled, and when a sufficient supply for the apparatus had been collected, Yogamáyà tried her skill in reviving her, but failed. At this juncture Vasanta suddenly appears in the scene, and his cries bring a Mahátmá to the rescue of the dying girl. The girl promptly revived under the Mahatmá's treatment, and Vasanta departed with her. The Mahátma was the Guru of Páglábábá and Yogamáyá and they both asked his forgiveness for what they had done. They were told by him to devote themselves to acts of merit and meet him on the Himálayas after a year. There they met him in due time and were told to pass their days in repentance, as the only means by which they could get rid of their sin.	5927
1899 Mar. 4th	360	12mo dy	New and revised	1,000	ditto ...	1 8 0	The Author, Varáhanagar.	The book originally appeared in 1887, and was noticed in this Library Catalogue for the 4th quarter of the year, as Bengali Book No. 6724. The present is a revised and enlarged edition but the plot is substantially the same. The revision cannot, however, be said to have removed the faults of style, which are many and serious, while the introduction of new matter cannot be said to have improved the plot in any way, which is as improbable, incoherent and as badly handled as ever.	5928

Feb. 18th	270	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ..	1 4 0	The Author, 199, Darmáhátá Street, Calcutta.	Is a hand book of Hindu medicine in popular Bengali, treating of the diseases of the chest and the urinary system. Both in its arrangement and methods of exposition, the book is immeasurably superior to most of the treatises of its class. The writer is conversant with the principles of Western medicine and his description of the different organs of the body, and the diseases they are prone to contain frequent references to the writings of standard European authors. The introductory chapter on the principles of Hindu therapeutics known as the Sutra-sthán is an attempt, and a very successful attempt, at explaining the real significance of Váyu, Pitta and Kapha, ordinarily known as the three humours and the part they are supposed to play in the human economy. The book is written on altogether new and scientific principles and is likely to revolutionise the methods of studying Hindu medicine.	5967

March 2nd	8	12mo dy	1st ...	1,000	ditto ...	1 0 0	Gurudás Chatterji, 201, Cornwallis Street, Calcutta.	Gives, in the form of a connected narrative, a series of vivid realistic sketches depicting the character and conduct of the lower ranks of railway employes, from the jemadar to the native station master. Their ignorance, their dishonesty, their petty dodges to cheat the passengers, their insolence towards the general public, and sycophancy towards the European are mercilessly expressed. The hardship of their lot, the indifference of the authorities, as the writer thinks, in the matter of ameliorating it, are all taken note of. The incidents described are in the majority of cases funny in the extreme, and the interest in the narrative is well sustained. It is written in a good, popular style.	5971

The misappropriation and maladministration of the Temple-funds by the mohants, and the apathy and powerlessness of the members of the Endowment Committee appointed under Act XX of 1863, to remedy the evil are pointed out, and the attention of Government and Hindu public are particularly drawn to the matter.	5981

April 14th	82	16mo rl.	2nd...	1,000	Printed.	0 0 6	......	Silly writing on commonplace topics, which the author apparently regards as a very creditable performance. The mother-in-law, the National Congress, cheap litigation the history of India according to Western writers and the Babu are among the subjects which have been held up to ridicule in the pamphlet.	5982
Feb. 26th	100	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 8 0	The Author, 29, Sikdár Bágán Street, Calcutta	A collection of essays on a variety of topics written from the standpoint of enlightened conservatism. The writer is an admirer of Hindu institutions, but he has no objection to adopt them, without destroying their spirit, to the needs of western culture and civilisation. Many of the essays are thoughtfully written.	5983

The present collection is perhaps the only one of its kind in the language.	5984

Mar. 19th	237	8vo dy	1st...	2,000	ditto ...	1 10 0	Svámí Trigunátíta, 14, Rám Chandra Maitra's Lane, Calcutta.	A Bengali translation of Svámí Vivekánandas lectures on Rája Yoga, delivered in English. The contents of the volume may be summed up thus:—(1) Introductory observations on Yoga, and how it should be practised; (2) a chapter on Yoga taken from the Kurma Purána; (3) aphorisms of Pátanjali and their explanation as given by the Svámí and (4) an appendix containing a collection of sástric texts bearing on Yoga. Having regard to the difficulty of accurately rendering the technicalities of Yoga in intelligent Bengali, the translator may be said to have done his work remarkably well. The book is extremely interesting reading and written in fairly good and correct Bengali.	5988
Feb. 13th	341	8vo dy	1st...	500	ditto...	......	Chandra Kánta Tarkálankár, 109, Muktárám Bábu's Street, Calcutta.	Containing a lucid and careful exposition of the fundamental principles of four among the six systems of Hindu philosophy, viz, Vaiseshika, Nyáya, Sánkhya, and Pátanjala. Of these four, Vaiseshika and Sánkhya have been treated at a greater length than Nyáya, while of Pátanjal, which takes its principles from Saukhya, the out lines have only been given. The most interesting portions of the book are perhaps those where the old controversy between Gárgya and Sákatáyan about the origin of names is discussed, and where Kanád's theory about the physical constitution of the Universe is sought to be justified on principles of modern science. The aim and scope of Hindu philosophy in general and of each school in particular form part of a separate lecture. The contents of the present volume are apparently meant as an introduction to the writer's exposition of Vedánta, which is to form the subject matter of the next volume. The learned author may be congratulated on the way in which he has tried to popularise the doctrines of Hindu philosophy among his countrymen.	5989

Mar. 25th	58	12mo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	0 4 0	The Author, Burdwan.	The story of a poor beggar woman and her daughter told in Blank Verse. The woman Vámá used to support herself and her infant daughter Bálá by begging. She used to beg all day and to return home in the evening. One day, getting no alms anywhere, she went to a Rájá's house, where preparations were being made for a feast; but struck by a durwan, she fell under the wheels of a carriage and was killed on the spot. Her death brings the story abruptly to a close. The writer is very hard on rich people, who, he thinks, are devoid of even ordinary virtues of humanity. He has evidently taken Wordsworth for his model, and his language is at times very homely and colloquial.	5992
April 6th	24	12mo dy	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 2 0	The Editor, Meherpur.	A collection of Vaishnava songs, mostly on the subject of Krishna's amour with Rádhiká, by old Bengali poetesses, one of whom at least, viz., the washerwoman Rámi was a contemporary of the oldest Bengali poet Chandidás.	5993
Mar. 3rd	156	12mo rl	1st...	500	ditto ...	1 8 0	The Author, Calcutta.	Is a book of lyrics beautifully got up and illustrated with numerous woodcuts. Many of the pieces in this book are of great beauty and originality, showing that the writer possesses poetic powers of no mean order. But the poem is not free from obscure passages and faults of grammar due, no doubt, to his neglect of the classical model. The book is styled Padmá, because there is, as the writer fancies, a parallel between the waves of that river and the 'mental-currents' which the sight of the former gives rise to in him.	5994
June 1st	237	8vo dy	1st...	500	ditto ...	Nil.	The Author, Sadikhándiár.	Is a poem in blank verse describing the defeat and death of the demon Naraka by Krishna. Through the favour of Siva, Naraka defeated the gods and forcibly took away the ear-rings from the person of their mother Aditi. Indra thereupon went to Bramhá (the Creator) to seek his help in defeating the demon, and was referred by him to Siva. The latter again referred him to Krishna as being the only person who could defeat and kill Naraka. Indra then sought Krishna's aid, and in the war which followed, Naraka with his followers was defeated and killed. The versification of the poem is harsh and prosaic, and there is absolutely nothing to recommend either in the conception or in the delineation of characters. This is the writer's first attempt at writing poetry, and the attempt has been a failure. The poem is a very weak imitation of Michael Madhusúdan's Meghanádabadh.	5995

Mar. 16th	278	8vo dy	1st...	5,000	Printed.	0 8 0	Vangíya Sáhitya Parishad, 106/1, Grey Street, Calcutta.	Is a Bengali version of the Mahábhárata by one Vijay Pandit similar to the one by the Kásidás. Vijay's date has not yet been fixed with accuracy, but the language of his poem, abounding as it does in archaic words and expressions, shows that he must have preceded Kásidás at least by a century. Vijay was a poet of no mean order, and his book possesses great philological value. The Vangíya-Sáhitya Parishad has, therefore, done a service to Bengali language and literature by rescuing the poet from oblivion. This part brings the story of the Mahábharata down to the end of the Udyoga Parva.	6010

1897.	150	12mo rl.	2nd...	1,000	ditto ...	1 0 0	Mukherji & Co., 8, Bowbázár Street, Calcutta.	It is a term of Hindu logic which has no equivalent in English. It has been defined as "the negation of certainty in regard to a conclusion, qualified by the negation of a desire for the inferential process." In other words, it means the existence, either of a desire for inference, no matter whether the thing to be inferred is already known or not, or of an uncertainty relating to the thing to be inferred, no matter whether the desire for the inference exists or not, or both. It gives the text of Gangesa, the notes on the same by Raghu Náth Siromani and Mathurá Náth Tarkavágis, and a commentary on Raghu Náth's notes by Jagadísa Tarkalankar. It is one of the text books on Hindu Nyáya and is extensively read by all students of Hindu Logic. It is a most difficult and abstruse work.	1636

1898. Dec. 26th	24	8vo fc.	1st...	1,000	ditto ...	0 0	Magní Rám Sarmá.	The pamphlet aims at reconciling the contradictory texts found in the Puráṇas. According to the writer, the Puráṇas teach the worship of God conceived as the Universal cause and not as the Universal effect. When therefore particular gods are praised in particular Puráṇas they must be taken figuratively as standing for the Universal Cause, while the gods disparaged therein must be taken as meaning God as manifested in effects. Moreover, Puránic stories must not be taken literally, but figuratively. Thus, there is really no contradiction in the Puráṇas, which teach the worship of the same formless God as Vedánta. The author is a learned man and the book contains frequent references to Sástric texts.	111

FINAL REPORT ON THE JUTE CROP FOR SEASON 1899.

THE following is published for general information.

F. A. SLACK,

The 2nd October 1899. Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

Final Report on the Jute Crop for season 1899.

Explanatory.—The first forecast of the jute crop for the season 1899, which was published on the 27th of June last, gave a general review of the condition of the crop up to the middle of that month. The present report contains approximate estimates of the area and outturn of the crop up to the middle of September. Returns are received by this Department from 26 districts, in which almost the whole of the jute crop of Bengal is grown.

2. Character of the season.—Up to the middle of June, the season, as stated in the first forecast, was not on the whole unfavourable. The rainfall in January was generally above the normal. In February, it exceeded the normal in East Bengal, in Jessore and in Midnapore, and fell short of the normal in all the other districts. In March, it was generally below the normal. In April, it was above the normal and well distributed. In May, it was heavy in many important districts, but the excess then did not prove prejudicial. In June, there was an excess in all districts except Khulna, Rangpur, Mymensingh, Backergunge and Cuttack. In July, the rainfall was abnormally heavy and continuous in almost all districts, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling and Cuttack only recording falls a little below the normal. In August, the rainfall was in excess of the normal in most of the important eastern and northern districts of Bengal. In September, the rainfall has not been excessive and has been fairly equally distributed.

3. Area cultivated.—In the preliminary forecast, it was shewn that there had been a considerable increase in the area sown with jute over that sown last year, owing to a rise in the price of jute coincident with a fall in the price of rice. Since the date of the issue of that forecast, further special enquiries have been made in order to verify the figures of area then given, with the result that it is now reported that an area of 1,971,300 acres has been sown this year as compared with an area of 1,624,400 acres sown in 1898, and a normal area of 2,189,400 acres. There has thus been an increase of over 21 per cent. since last year.

4. Character of the crop.—Up to the date of the issue of the preliminary forecast, the prospects of the crop were good, and it was estimated that an outturn only slightly below the normal would be obtained from the area sown. Since then, the weather has been extremely unfavourable and the estimates of outturn sent in from most of the principal jute-growing districts shew a reduction on those previously submitted. In fact, the two northern districts, Jalpaiguri and Rangpur, are almost the only exceptions to this, and the average estimate of the outturn compiled from the returns of the eleven most important districts has fallen from 93 per cent. to 74 per cent. It is possible, that the outturn is now somewhat underestimated, and it is noticeable that, in response to the recent rise in price, a very large amount of jute has been brought into the market already. It is probable, however, that the crop is being brought in more rapidly than usual, and that the returns shewing imports of jute into Calcutta will shortly fall off. Taking all factors into consideration, it may be roughly estimated that 80 per cent. of a normal crop will be obtained from the area sown this year.

5. Gross outturn.—It is estimated, that in a normal year, the outturn of jute amounts to 3 bales per acre or 66 lakhs of bales for the Province; and in the preliminary forecast, it was anticipated that the gross outturn in the current year would amount to 58 lakhs of bales, or 87 per cent. of a normal crop. This would have represented, in the usual phraseology employed, a 14-anna crop. In view of the unfavourable reports since received from the districts, this estimate must now be considerably reduced, and it seems improbable that the gross outturn will exceed 50 lakhs of bales or 75 per cent. of the normal outturn. This represents what is more familiarly known as a 12-anna crop.

In spite of the care with which information has been collected by the District Officers, this estimate cannot be better than a rough one, and the returns received from all the districts are appended in order that those who are interested in the jute trade may examine them for themselves.

Assistant Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal.

Burdwan ...	11,000	11,000	10,900	......	+0·92	76	100	25,100	33,000	25,900	—23·94	—3·09	Owing to constant and heavy rain, the outturn of jute both in the Sadar and Kalna subdivisions is expected to be below the normal. The outturn in Katwa is also below the normal owing to scarcity of rain at the time of sowing.
Midnapore ...	11,300	11,800	11,100	—4·24	+1·80	73	79	24,700	28,000	23,700	—11·79	+4·22	The figure in column 2 has been altered from 12,300, as shewn in the preliminary forecast, to 11,300 in this return, the reason being that subsequent inundation damaged the crop in parts of the Contai subdivision, and the land was afterwards sown with paddy seedlings. Excessive rainfall accounts for the falling off in the outturn of the current year as compared with that of the previous year.
Hooghly ...	13,100	13,900	12,000	—5·76	+9·17	62	100	24,400	41,700	23,800	—11·40	—15·28	The small outturn estimated is due to excessive rain soon after germination.

Nadia	34,100	26,600	43,600	+28·20	−21·79	62	81	63,400	64,600	104,800	−1·86	−39·50	Untimely and excessive rains are the reasons for the decrease in the area sown as well as in the outturn now shewn as compared with that given in the preliminary forecast.	The area in column 2 has been revised by the Collector.
Murshidabad ...	19,600	16,600	21,600	+18·07	−9·26	88	53	51,700	41,300	45,100	+25·18	+14·63	The increase in the area sown this year is due to the low prices of food-grains.
Jessore	27,200	18,100	33,400	+50·28	−18·56	90	71	73,400	38,600	78,900	+90·16	−6·97	......
Khulna ...	15,100	14,500	20,800	+4·14	−27·40	81	70	36,700	30,500	52,800	+20·33	−30·49	In the Satkhira subdivision, the outturn was average, but in the Bagirhat and Sadar subdivisions the outturn was low, owing to unfavourable rainfall which damaged the crop to a certain extent.

Rajshahi	...	108,700	100,200	108,100	+8·48	+0·56	58	78	189,100	234,500	297,200	−19·36	−36·37
Dinajpur	...	75,000	75,000	99,500	......	−24·62	90	100	202,500	225,000	268,400	−10·00	−24·55	Heavy rains in the first stage prevented proper weeding and thus affected the vigorous growth of the plants. In the second stage, continuous heavy rain kept the jute up to a certain height under water, causing off-shoots to spring out; so the fibre has been weakened and the outturn reduced; but the colour of the jute will be very good, as it is being steeped and washed in plenty of water.
Jalpaiguri	...	64,800	63,800	66,700	+1·57	−2·26	78	60	151,600	114,800	186,100	+32·05	−8·73	The outturn is expected to be below the normal owing to excessive rain which has retarded the drying of the jute.
Darjeeling (Plains).		1,600	1,600	2,500	......	−36·00	67	67	3,200	3,200	6,100	......	−47·54	The figure in column 8 was not properly translated from anna into percentage outturn last year; hence a revised figure is now submitted.
Rangpur	...	277,000	182,000	271,960	+52·20	+1·88	94	82	781,100	447,700	698,100	+74·47	+11·89	Owing to the high price of jute last year, the cultivators have sown more lands with this crop this year. The rainfall has been favourable on the whole, and the outturn will probably be higher this year than it was last year.	The Collector has revised the area in column 2 since the submission of his preliminary forecast and has largely increased it.
Bogra ...	...	75,000	40,000	95,000	+87·50	−21·05	78	73	175,500	87,600	232,500	+100·34	−24·52	The rise in the price of jute and the fall in that of rice has caused cultivators to sow a larger area with jute this year. Incessant rain since the submission of the preliminary forecast injuriously affected the crop. Hence the reduction of the estimated outturn.

Pabna	123,000	103,800	144,800	+18·50	—15·06	75	80	276,800	249,100	446,500	+11·12	—38·01	Continuous rainfall since the submission of the first forecast has brought into existence an insect locally called chenga which has done much damage to this crop. The estimated outturn, which was reported in the first forecast as 100, is therefore now reduced to 75.	The Collector will be asked to furnish a separate report as to the damage done by insect pests.
Dacca	150,600	132,400	193,500	+13·29	—22·48	65	95	292,500	377,300	484,400	—22·48	—39·62	Insect pests caused great damage to the crop. Much damage was also caused by excessive flood water. Hence the outturn estimated is less than that shewn in the preliminary forecast. The last heavy rains have done a little good in the way of destroying the insects, otherwise the outturn would have been still smaller.	The extent of damage done by insects and floods will be the subject of further enquiry.
Mymensingh ...	508,000	497,500	550,500	+2·11	—7·72	70	90	1,066,800	1,343,300	1,422,800	—20·58	—25·08	The jute crop has suffered much for want of sunshine · the outturn is therefore expected to be less than that shewn in the preliminary forecast.
Faridpur ...	90,000	70,000	62,600	+28·57	+43·77	50	60	135,000	126,000	213,900	+7·14	—36·89	The decrease in the outturn is due to incessant rain during the growing season and the damage done to the crops by insects.	A further report on the damage done by insects will be asked for from the Collector.

Backergunge ...	10,000	7,500	10,000	+33·33	...	100	100	30,000	22,500	23,600	+33·33	+27·12	Timely rainfall has kept up the estimate made in the preliminary forecast.

RESOLUTION ON THE BUDGET ESTIMATES OF THE PORT COMMISSIONERS OF CHITTAGONG FOR 1899-1900.

No. 1940 Marine.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL—MARINE DEPARTMENT.

Dated Calcutta, the 29th September 1899.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

Letter No. 658P., dated the 17th October 1898, from the Chairman of the Commissioners of the Port of Chittagong, submitting through the Accountant-General, Bengal, the revised budget estimate of the Commissioners for the year 1898-99, and the estimates for the year 1899-1900.

Letter No. 395P., dated the 27th June 1899, from the Chairman of the Commissioners of the Port of Chittagong, submitting a further revised budget estimate for the year 1898-99, and the estimates for the year 1899-1900 based on the latest figures known.

The principal differences between the figures in the estimate for the year 1898-99, sanctioned in Resolution No. 892Marine, dated the 22nd April 1898, and those given in the estimate last submitted, are shown below:—

	Budget Estimate.	Revised Estimate (actuals).
	Rs.	Rs.
RECEIPTS.
Port dues	31,879	29,846
Fees and fines—
Mooring fees	12,177	8,797
Sundry receipts	28,351	22,587
EXPENDITURE.
Interest on and repayment of loans	35,110	2,556
Vessels and boats	22,833	24,008
Light-houses	4,711	7,228

2. As the year 1898-99 has come to a close, the revised estimates have been based on the actuals of that year.

3. A grant of Rs. 12,000 was made by this Government in 1898-99 on account of the cost of a new light for the Kutubdia Light-house. This amount should therefore have been shown under the head "Sanctioned estimate." The necessary entry has been made.

4. Subject to the above remarks, the Lieutenant-Governor sanctions the revised estimates.

5. The budget estimate for 1899-1900 is based mainly on the actuals of 1898-99.

6. The yearly amount to be paid to the Government on account of the loan (with interest) for the S.T. Gekko amounts to Rs. 16,294-14-6. The Port Commissioners were unable to make this payment during the last two years, viz., 1897-98 and 1898-99, and provision must be made in the current year's budget for payment of at least half the amount due. A provision of Rs. 24,443, that is, for one and-a-half year's instalment, has accordingly been made.

7. A provision of Rs. 3,600 was made by the Commissioners on account of the pay of the Commander of the S.T. Gekko. As Mr. Howard, Assistant Port Officer, has been placed in charge of the vessel on Rs. 100 a month, this provision has been reduced to Rs. 1,200.

8. A provision of Rs. 4,537 was made under the head "Miscellaneous." This did not include the estimate for Rs. 3,684-8, which the Commissioners have submitted for an additional hose to make the fire-extinguishing appliances of the S.T. Gekko efficient. The provision has accordingly been increased to Rs. 8,222.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor sanctions the estimate of receipts and expenditure for the year 1899-1900 under section 69 of Act IV (B.C.), 1887.

10. An abstract of the revised estimate for 1898-99 and of the estimate for 1899-1900 is subjoined:—

11. The financial position of the Trust is at present very unsatisfactory. To prevent a deficit, the Government has, as already stated, remitted the payment of the usual instalment on account of the loan for the S.T. Gekko during the past two years, but this state of things can hardly be allowed to continue. The Commissioners have been asked to take steps with a view to reducing expenditure as far as possible; and to obtain statements of the receipts and charges of the Ports of Akyab, Moulmein and the minor ports of Madras, and, after carefully examining them, to submit any proposals they may consider desirable for the imposition of additional fees.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

R. B. BUCKLEY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE WORKING OF THE LODGING-HOUSE ACT IN BENGAL DURING 1898-99.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT.—MUNICIPAL.

Calcutta, the 3rd October 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 4926M.

READ—

The reports from the Commissioners of Divisions on the working of the Puri Lodging-house Act, IV (B.C.) of 1871, as amended by Acts II (B.C.) of 1879 and I (B.C.) of 1884, during the year 1898-99, in the various places to which it has been extended.

Read also—

The Resolution reviewing the Commissioners' reports on the working of the Act during the year 1897-98.

Extension of the Act.—The Puri Lodging-house Act, IV (B.C.) of 1871, as amended by Acts II (B.C.) of 1879 and I (B.C.) of 1884, was in force in the towns and areas named in the margin during the year. It was extended to the railway stations at Jatni, Kolapara, Chattipur, and Balugaon, but too late to come into operation before the end of the year.

In the Burdwan Division.

1. Garhbeta.
2. Uluberia.
3. Gowankhali.
4. Dantun.
5. Midnapore.

In the Presidency Division.

6. Nadia.

In the Chittagong Division.

7. Sitakund.

In the Patna Division.

8. Gaya.

In the Bhagalpur Division.

9. Deoghur.

In the Orissa Division.

10. Chatties on the Jagannath Road, in the district of Balasore.
11. Chatties on the Jagannath Road, in the district of Cuttack.
12. Chandbali.
13. Jajpur.
14. Barang chatti on the Ganjam Road, in the district of Cuttack.
15. Puri town and the chatties on the Jagannath Road, in the district of Puri.

2. Licensed lodging-houses.—The number of licensed lodging houses increased from 1,409 in 1897-98 to 1,678. The increase is most marked in Puri town; the chatties on the Jagannath Road, where there are two popular shrines; and at Gaya. It is explained that, while the opening of the East Coast Railway is likely to reduce the number of lodging-houses along the Jagannath Road, it will tend to increase the number of such houses at certain points along the railway route, where pilgrims usually halt; the total number thus remaining about the same. At Gaya the increase is ascribed to the good harvest and to the abatement of the dread of inspection on account of plague. The year moreover was more auspicious for pilgrimage than the preceding one.

The total number of lodgers accommodated during the year rose from 36,897 in the previous year to 54,210. The increase was shared by all the places where the Act is in force, except Nadia and Chandbali, and was most marked in Sitakund, where the number rose from 2,747 to 12,551.

3. Income.—The total income of the year was Rs. 38,471 against Rs. 32,798, the opening balance being Rs. 23,798 and the closing balance Rs. 25,023. There was a general increase under all the heads of income, except "Miscellaneous," and was shared by almost all the districts. The most noticeable increase of income took place in Sitakund, Gaya, and Puri town. The increase at Sitakund is reported to be due to the increase in the number of lodgers, and at Gaya to the issue of a larger number of licenses. The Orissa Division shows the largest decrease under "Miscellaneous," and this has not been explained. The explanation called for from the Magistrates concerned should be submitted to Government.

4. Expenditure.—The total expenditure was Rs. 37,247 against Rs. 36,772 in 1897-98. There has been an increase of expenditure under all the heads, except "Miscellaneous," where it has declined from Rs. 3,993 to Rs. 1,290. At Gaya the total expenditure rose from Rs. 9,248 to Rs. 10,580. The largest increase occurred under the head "Dispensaries and other medical expenditure" and "Contribution to other funds." In Sitakund, Gaya, and Cuttack the closing balances are considerable, and the Lieutenant-Governor has little doubt that more money might have been usefully spent on sanitary improvements.

5. Prosecutions.—The number of persons prosecuted for receiving pilgrims without a license, for taking in more than the licensed number, and for other offences against the Act and the bye-laws, was 231 against 262 in 1897-98; and the number convicted was 211 against 238. The amount of fines realised increased from Rs. 1,323 to Rs. 1,818. As is pointed out by the Commissioner of Orissa, the number of prosecutions is extremely low, compared to the number of offences under the Act which must be presumed to have been committed.

6. Public health.—The health of the places where the Act was in force is reported to have been generally good during the year, and it is satisfactory to note that no serious epidemic occurred. In Nadia there was only one case of cholera, which ended fatally, against seven cases, with six deaths, during the previous year. In Gaya there were 47 deaths from cholera against 73 in the previous year, and altogether there were 136 deaths among pilgrims from all causes, against 101 in 1897-98. In Deoghur there were 15 deaths from cholera. In all the places in the Orissa Division there were 16 deaths from cholera against 148 in the preceding year. The following statement shows the statistics of disease and mortality among the pilgrims during the year:—

Disease.	Number of persons admitted into hospital, including those remaining from the previous year.				Number of deaths in the lodging-houses.	Total number of deaths, columns 3 and 6.
	Cured.	Died.	Remaining on 31st March.	Total.

Total ...	1,405	321	39	1,765	148	469

7. Water-supply.—The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to notice that no steps were taken during the year to sink another well at Garhbeta, which was reported in 1897-89 to be urgently required in the interior of the town for the supply of good drinking-water. The masonry well, which was under construction in Dantun in 1897-98, was completed during the year. In Ulubaria funds are being raised to provide another tank. In Nadia the Municipality spent a sum of Rs. 1,386 on the re-excavation of a tank. At Sitakund people receive their supply of drinking-water through an iron pipe from the Mandaguni spring. Several tanks were cleared and reserved for drinking and culinary purposes. In all the places in the Orissa Division the tanks and wells were cleared and properly disinfected. In Puri three new wells were sunk on the side of the Jagannath Road. Four new masonry wells were sunk in the wards of the Municipality, where there were none before.

On the whole, the Act appears to have been worked satisfactorily during the year in most of the places in which it was in force; and the local officers generally have taken an interest in its administration. The Lieutenant-Governor regrets to see it reported that in Puri a want of co-operation existed between the Municipal Commissioners and the Committee appointed under the Act, and His Honour trusts that the inert and obstructive spirit in matters of sanitation, which the former have hitherto displayed, may shortly be replaced by willingness on their part to help the Committee, as they should, with money to carry out the various sanitary improvements required for the town.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be submitted to the Government of India, in the Home Department, and that copies of it be forwarded to the Commissioners of the Burdwan, Presidency, Chittagong, Patna, Bhagalpur, and Orissa Divisions for information.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution be comunicated to the Sanitary Commissioner and to the Sanitary Board, and that it be published in the Calcutta Gazette for general information.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

E. N. BAKER,

Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

RESOLUTION ON THE REPORT OF THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE STAMP DEPARTMENT DURING THE THREE YEARS ENDING THE 31ST MARCH 1899.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT.—SEPARATE REVENUE.

Calcutta, the 3rd October 1899.

RESOLUTION—No. 5714S.R.

READ—

The Report of the Board of Revenue on the Administration of the Stamp Department during the three years ending 31st March 1899.

THE Acts under which the stamp revenue was collected during the triennial period under review were the Indian Stamp Act, I of 1879, and the Court Fees Act, VII of 1870, as modified by subsequent enactments. The former Act was further amended by the enactment of Act XIII of 1897, in which provision was made for composition of duty payable in respect of bonds, debentures and other certificates issued under the Local Authorities Loans Act, 1879, or any other law for the time being in force. Provision was at the same time made for leaving such bonds, debentures or other certificates unstamped. After the close of the year 1898-99, the new Indian Stamp Act, II of 1899, which revised and consolidated the Act of 1879, and received the assent of the Governor-General in Council in January 1899, came into force. The Court Fees Act of 1870 was also further amended by Act XI of 1899, with the object, first, of providing a check on the undervaluation of estates by persons applying for probate of a will or for letters of administration, and secondly, of giving the revenue authorities greater facilities for the realisation of the full amount of the duty payable on probates and letters of administration. This Act came into force with effect from the 10th March 1899, and it is yet too early to offer any remarks on its working. The changes made during the past three years in the rules issued by Government, though numerous and important from a departmental point of view, are not of sufficient general interest to call for special notice in this place. The administration of the Stamp Department in the Sonthal Parganas, which, since the passing of Act XXXVII of 1855, had been under the Commissioner, came under the Board of Revenue with effect from the 1st April 1898.

Stamp revenue.

2. The financial results of the administration of the Stamp Department during the past three years, with the average for the previous triennium, are shown in the following statement:—

The gross average annual revenue collected under both the Indian Stamp Act and the Court Fees Act, during the three years under review, was Rs. 1,75,72,809 against Rs. 1,64,82,973 collected during the preceding triennium, thus showing an increase of Rs. 10,89,836, which was contributed both by non-judicial and judicial stamps in the proportion of Rs. 3,67,360 and Rs. 7,22,476, respectively.

Stamp sales.

3. The receipts from sales of the different kinds of stamps are shown in the table below. The figures differ from those given in the last paragraph, as they do not include miscellaneous receipts under the Indian Stamp Act or receipts from the sale of plain paper used with court-fee stamps. There is also a discrepancy of Rs. 1,177 between the total average sales as reported by the Superintendent of Stamps and as shown by the Accountant-General, Bengal, which is under adjustment:—

The average receipts were again highest in Calcutta (Rs. 25,95,374), where nearly one-seventh of the entire stamp revenue was collected, and lowest in Singhbhum (Rs. 21,077). Mymensingh contributed more than $9\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs, 24-Parganas nearly $7\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs, Dacca more than $7\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs, Tippera over 7 lakhs, Backergunge nearly 7 lakhs, Midnapore $6\frac{2}{3}$ lakhs, Chittagong, Faridpur and Muzaffarpur over $4\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs each, Jessore, Rangpur and Hooghly more than $4\frac{1}{4}$ lakhs each, and Burdwan and Noakhali over 4 lakhs each. The general incidence of stamp revenue on the population of Bengal numbering 71,096,643, according to the census of 1891, was 3 annas and 9 pies per head.

Non judicial stamps.

4. The statistics of revenue from impressed sheets, the most important of the non-judicial stamps, are of remarkable interest, and afford a striking illustration of the conditions of agricultural life in this country. In England, an increase in the revenue from deeds and instruments is regarded as conclusive evidence of the activity and prosperity of the landed interest, and was singled out for remark as such in last year's Budget Statement for the United Kingdom. But the above figures, read with the remarks of the local officers, make it clear that in this country it is in years of agricultural depression and distress that the revenue from this source is highest, and that the large increase in it during the years 1896-97 and 1897 98 marks a correspondingly large number of transfers of holdings from the cultivating to the money-lending class. In 1896-97 the sudden incidence of distress upon the poorer cultivators caused by the failure of that year's harvest was accompanied by a sudden rise of $8\frac{3}{4}$ lakhs in the revenue from this source. In 1897-98 the continuance of distress through the first-half of the year caused a further rise of nearly half a lakh; while with returning prosperity in 1898-99 we find a sudden drop of $3\frac{1}{2}$ lakhs, bringing the revenue down to but a fraction above that of the average of the years 1893 to 1896. In the North-Western Provinces the result was similar, but it may be remarked that the high water-mark in those provinces was reached in the first of the three years of scarcity, and that contraction of credit and other influences caused a decrease in these transactions during each of the two subsequent years, though it even then remained above the normal. From this comparison it would appear that the credit of the raiyat and the capital of the mahajan are greater in Bengal than in the North-Western Provinces.

As to individual districts, it may be noted that in Calcutta, where business was unfavourably affected by famine and the plague scare, the revenue for the three years under report decreased by 5·5 per cent. from the previous triennial average, and that in Champaran there was the large decrease of 15·1 per cent. In the latter case the decrease is the more remarkable in that it follows on a decrease of 7·7 per cent. in 1893 to 1896, which was explained by the Board of Revenue in their report for that period as due to parties awaiting the conclusion of survey and settlement operations before entering into fresh transactions. The decrease in 1898-99 is ascribed to the Manager of the Bettiah Raj having interdicted the transfer of raiyati holdings without the consent of the landlord. From whatever cause, the revenue from this source in Champaran has fallen from Rs. 54,329 in 1893-94 to Rs. 28,994 in 1898-99.

Impressed labels, which are used only in Calcutta, decreased during 1898-99 by Rs. 1,57,404, as compared with the figures for 1897-98, but the average receipts from this source during the three years under review amounted to Rs. 8,14,447 against Rs. 6,96,067 collected during the years 1893-94 to 1895-96, thus showing an increase of Rs. 1,18,380. There was a decline of Rs. 6,877 in the sale of 1-anna revenue stamps, commonly known as receipt stamps, during 1898-99, as compared with the receipts of the previous year, but the average receipts of the three years ending 31st March 1899 showed an increase of Rs. 30,586, as compared with the figures for the preceding three years. The increase occurred in all the districts except Backergunge, Dinajpur and Noakhali. The Board of Revenue attribute this increase "to the better observance of the law by the people, to the greater vigilance on the part of Government officers in making known to the people the requirements of the law, and to the facility afforded to the public for obtaining these stamps through the agency of the post office."

The other classes of non-judicial stamps, which are of minor importance, showed a decrease of Rs. 16,357 under share transfer stamps, Rs. 3,136 under, foreign bill stamps, Rs. 2,166 under advocate, vakil and attorney stamps, and of Rs. 23,376 under hundi stamps; and an increase of Rs. 8,232 under one-anna impressed stamps. The decrease under share transfer and hundi stamps was mostly due to the stagnation of business in consequence of famine and plague.

Judicial stamps.

5. Under the head Judicial stamps are included (1) adhesive and impressed Court-fee stamps, (2) High Court service stamps, (3) Calcutta Small Cause Court stamps, and (4) stamps for copies. The figures now given indicate that the stress of scarcity, though it may compel the native of Bengal to sell or mortgage his ancestral holding, is yet powerless to induce him to forego in any degree his taste for litigation. Each of the three years now under review shows a steady and continuous rise in the revenue from this source. The average income of the past three years from the sales of these stamps was Rs 1,13,70,309 under (1) Rs 3,000 under (2), Rs. 3,76,362 under (3), and Rs. 6,54,337 under (4) making a total of Rs. 1,24,04,008, or an increase of 6·2 per cent. over the income from the same sources in the preceding triennium. Forty districts showed an increase and six a decrease. The largest increases were in Midnapore (Rs. 76,697), Tippera (Rs. 76,556), the 24-Parganas (Rs. 45,768), Rangpur (Rs. 44,459), Backergunge (Rs. 39,920), Howrah (Rs. 39,245), Bankura (Rs. 36,904), Cuttack including Angul (Rs. 33,930), Saran (Rs. 31,950), Noakhali (Rs. 29,669), Faridpur (Rs. 25,661), and Muzaffarpur (Rs. 25,538); the chief decrease being in Dacca (Rs. 24,617). These increases and decreases are due to purely local influences, which it is unnecessary to recapitulate. Taking each denomination of Court-fee stamps sold during the years under review, there was an increase of nearly 4 lakhs in the sale of eight-anna stamps, nearly 3 lakhs in one-anna stamps, and over one lakh in one-rupee stamps, while on the other hand there was a decrease of 40,893 in that of two-anna stamps.

Levy of penalties.

6. The number of cases in which deficient stamp duty and penalty were levied by Civil and Revenue Courts, and the amounts realized during the period under review, are shown in the following table:—

Year.	Number of cases.		Amount of duty and penalty realized.		Total.

Prosecutions.

7. The average number of prosecutions instituted annually for various breaches of the stamp law was 995 against 1,016 in the previous triennium. The Lieutenant-Governor notices with satisfaction the decrease in the number of prosecutions instituted in all except the Presidency and Chota Nagpur Divisions. There was a marked increase of 639 in the number of cases instituted in Calcutta, and the Board attribute this to the "success of the officers attached to the Stamp Department of the Collectorate in seizing a large number of unstamped hundis which were issued from Faridpur and Backergunge and negotiated in Beliaghata in the 24-Parganas." The average number of persons brought to trial was 991 against 1,249, of convictions 889 against 1,020, and of acquittals 73 against 162. The Board of Revenue bring to notice the fact that not a single rupee was paid as reward in 30 out of the 47 districts in the province, viz., in the whole of the Orissa and Chittagong Divisions, in 4 districts of the Burdwan Division, in 3 districts of each of the Presidency and Bhagalpur Divisions, in 5 districts of the Rajshahi Division, in 6 districts of the Patna Division, and in 2 districts of the Chota Nagpur Division. In explanation the Board write:—"The duty assigned to income-tax assessors of detecting evasions of stamp duty having been withdrawn, no rewards were paid to those officers in any of the districts except Palamau. This explains the non-payment of rewards or scanty payment in the remaining districts."

8. Several cases of fraud and defalcation were detected during the period under review, the most serious of which occurred in the Shahabad treasury, where Court-fee stamps to the value of Rs. 13,080-8 were abstracted from the double and single lock store. The enquiry disclosed that the abstraction of the stamps, which extended from 1891 down to July 1896, was rendered possible only by neglect of rules and culpable carelessness on the part of the Treasurer and the Treasury Officer. Criminal proceedings against the stamp muharrir were instituted in respect of certain stamps found missing from the stock under single lock, and he was sentenced, on conviction, to two years' rigorous imprisonment. A similar, but isolated, case occurred in the Puri Collectorate; stamps to the value of Rs. 148-8 having been abstracted by a muharrir during the temporary absence of the Treasurer. The theft was, however, immediately discovered by the latter officer, and resulted in the muharrir being sentenced to six months' rigourous imprisonment.

The working of the licensed stamp vendors was on the whole satisfactory, an exception being in the Siwan subdivision of Saran, where systematic frauds in obtaining refunds and in selling spoiled stamps appear to have been committed. No conviction, however, was obtained.

9. The Lieutenant-Governor's acknowledgments are due to the Board of Revenue for their careful administration of the Stamp Department. The names of the officers favourably mentioned by the Board will be noted in the Appointment Department.

FIRST REPORT ON THE BHADOI CROPS IN BENGAL, 1899.

THE following is published for general information.

F. A. SLACK,

The 3rd October 1899. Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First Report on the Bhadoi Crops in Bengal, 1899.

Explanatory.—The present report furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of all kinds of bhadoi crops, including such food-crops as aus paddy, maize, and millets, for which no separate reports are published, and non-food crops, such as jute, indigo, and cotton, for which separate notes are issued by this Department. The normal areas have been revised by some of the District Officers since the date of last year's report.

Character of the season.—The season has been characterised by heavy and often excessive rain in most parts of these provinces. In April more than the average rain fell in all districts, excepting North Bengal, where it was slightly in defect. The rainfall in May was much above the normal in Orissa and Lower Bengal, fell below the normal in North Bengal and in the Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions, and was normal in the rest of Bihar. In June the rainfall was general, and was much above the normal in East Bengal. In Orissa, however, it was slightly deficient. The rainfall in July was exceptionally heavy and continuous over the greater part of these provinces, but there was a slight deficit again in Orissa, and the fall fell short of the normal also in the south of Chota Nagpur. In August, excessive rain fell in North Bengal, parts of East Bengal, Chittagong, and in the northern tracts, including the whole of Bihar down to the north bank of the Ganges, but the fall was considerably below the normal in Orissa and Chota Nagpur. The rainfall in September has been general, except in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, where it has been insufficient. On the whole, the season has been unfavourable to the bhadoi crops, as the rainfall has been badly distributed everywhere, and has been so excessive as to cause great damage in many districts; while some crops (especially paddy and jute) have also suffered seriously in some districts from insect pests.

Area cultivated.—The area sown with all kinds of bhadoi crops is estimated at 15,691,300 acres against 16,220,800 acres sown in 1898. The decrease of nearly 3 per cent. in the area sown is due to the unfavourable season. It should be remarked that, whilst the area under all the important bhadoi food-crops shows a considerable decrease, there has been, on the other hand, a perceptible increase in the area under the non-food crops. This result has been mostly brought about by the extended cultivation of jute in preference to paddy due to the low price prevailing for paddy at the close of last year.

Outturn.—From the statement appended to this note, it will be seen that out of 45 districts, only one district (Birbhum) anticipates an outturn above the normal. Six districts, viz., Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Tippera, Chittagong, and Cuttack estimate an outturn of 90 per cent. or above 90; in 16 districts, the estimate varies between 80 and 90, and in the remaining 22 districts it falls below 80, the estimates for all the districts of the Patna Division, except Chumparan (88) and Darbhanga (59) falling below 50 per cent. The crop which has suffered most would appear to have been maize, the estimated yield for the Province, in nearly 2 million acres, being only 33 per cent. while a million acres of mandua are expected to give only a 50 per cent. crop. Taking the Province as a whole, the District Officers estimate the outturn of all kinds of bhadoi crops at 76 per cent. of a normal crop against 93 estimated in 1898. Making due allowance for a tendency to under-estimate the outturn, it may be roughly calculated that these crops will yield an outturn equal to 80 per cent. of a normal crop.

Bankura ...	1,677,430	642,800	Bhadoi paddy	21,900	21,300	21,400	112	100	The slight decrease in the total area calls for no explanation. The outturn however of some of the crops is less than that of 1898, and the reason for this short outturn is that there has been an unequal distribution of rain during the year. There was copious rain at the beginning, but it has been scanty later on.

Champaran ..	2,259,840	1,864,000	Bhadoi paddy	223,000	223,000	236,000	88	110	The increase in area sown with bhadoi paddy is due to the favourable season at the time of sowing. The season has been very favourable to this crop throughout, and the outturn is expected to be nearly a bumper crop. The other bhadoi crops have suffered owing to excessive rain, and hence the outturn is expected to be short this year. The area under maize is less than that sown last year, as the sowing was prevented owing to continual heavy rain.	This report is an extremely favourable one as compared with those for neighbouring districts. It is true that agricultural conditions in Champaran differ somewhat from those in Saran and Muzaffarpur, and that the rainfall has been slightly less heavy there, but the estimate of outturn seems excessive. The figures of outturn for last year have been revised.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE STATIONERY DEPARTMENT FOR 1898-99.

FINANCIAL DEPARTMENT--MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 3rd Octoler 1899.

RESOLUTION No. 5720Mis.

READ—

Letter No. 651B., dated the 23rd August 1899, from the Board of Revenue, submitting the Report on the Administration of the Stationery Department for the year 1898-99.

The following statement compares the value of the stocks, receipts and issues of the Stationery Office for the past two years:—

	1897 98.	1898-99.
	Rs.	Rs.
Value of stores at the beginning of the year	7,21,058	7,17,254
Loss (—) by re-valuing the opening balance at the issue rate of the year	—25,337	—24,364

Value of stores received during the year	29,26,351	27,84,250
Total ...	36,[illegible]2,072	34,77,140
Value of stores issued during the year	29,41,253	28,32,062
Value of stores in stock at the close of the year ...	6,80,819	6,45,078
Gain (+) by valuing the stores in stock at the close of the years 1897-98 and 1898 99 at the issue rate of the year ...	+ 36,435	+ 55,555
Corrected value of stores at the close of the year ...	7,17,254	7,00,633

2. Compared with the figures of the previous year, the value of the stores received and issued during the year and that of the stores in stock at its close show a decrease of Rs. 1,42,101, Rs. 1,09,191 and Rs. 16,621 respectively. The decline in the receipts was mainly due to a falling off of Rs. 1,19,588 in the value of imported stores and of Rs. 27,047 in the value of country-made miscellaneous articles purchased locally. The decrease in the value of imported stores is attributed to the non-arrival from England of certain stores which were due during the year, and to the fall in the prices of English stores from competition and the rise in exchange; while that in the value of country-made miscellaneous articles purchased locally was due to smaller demand for them, to the reduction in the rates of some of the articles contracted for, and to the absence of any demand from staff and regimental officers on field service. There was an advance of Rs. 12,808 in the value of country-made paper. This increase, which occurred chiefly in half-bleached paper, coloured paper, blotting-paper, azure-laid and cream-laid papers, followed on an increased demand of the presses for printing forms.

3. The value of stores issued to Local Governments rose by Rs. 50,562, and all provinces except the Punjab and Burma contributed to the increase. The largest increase, amounting to Rs. 36,778, occurred in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh. The value of stationery consumed by the offices and departments of the Government of India fell off by Rs. 1,11,224. The fluctuations will, as usual, be explained in the reports on the consumption of stationery which the Superintendent of Stationery submits to the several Local Governments and Administrations. The issues to the Postal and Telegraph Departments fell off by Rs. 22,259.

4. The Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to learn that the stock of country-made articles at the close of the year was less than one month's consumption.

5. The quantity of water-marked paper issued for use with adhesive court-fee stamps diminished by 5,295 reams and its value by Rs. 17,209. The decrease occurred chiefly in the North-Western Provinces and the Punjab, the supplies to which declined by 2,435 and 2,536 reams respectively. A decrease also occurred in Bengal and Assam, while the Central Provinces, the Hyderabad Assigned Districts, and the Native States of Orissa show an increase. The Superintendent is unable to assign any reason for these fluctuations, as the paper is supplied direct to Treasury Officers for sale to the general public according to their demands.

6. The income and expenditure of the Stationery Department amounted to Rs. 4,790 and Rs. 1,06,481, against Rs. 4,953 and Rs. 1,09,877, respectively, in the previous year. The decline in the charges is chiefly attributable to a decrease under the heads "Establishment" and "Packing cases." The diminution under the last-named head was caused by the despatch of a smaller quantity of water-marked paper to the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

7. The total value of different articles of stationery issued, exclusive of deficiencies in stock-taking and miscellaneous adjustments, fell off by Rs. 1,15,003. The decrease is attributable mainly to smaller demands of the Survey and Settlement Department, the Public Works Department, the Quarter-master-General in India, and the State Railways for drawing and lithograph papers and pencils, and of the Government Presses for writing and coloured papers, wax-cloth, paste, mill and straw boards and leather; to the issue of a smaller quantity of water-marked paper, and to the absence of demands from the staff and regimental officers on field service. The principal decreases occurred under writing-paper (Rs. 61,253), lithograph paper (Rs. 17,126), water-marked paper (Rs. 17,136), leathers (Rs. 27,039), and other articles (Rs. 13,725). On the other hand, there was a noticeable increase under printing paper (Rs. 36,332) and tracing cloth (Rs. 13,274).

8. The supply of paper to the various Government Presses rose by Rs. 23,307, and all the presses, with the exception of the Government of India Presses and the presses in the Punjab and Burma, contributed to the increase. The largest decrease, amounting to Rs. 46,058, occurred in the consumption of the Government of India Presses. In Bengal the quantity consumed fell off by 571 reams, but the value rose by Rs. 17,003. The causes which led to this increase will be explained by the Superintendent in his report on the consumption of stationery and printed forms in Bengal. The fluctuations in the demands of the other presses cannot be explained by him, as they are not under his control.

9. The substitution of country-made for European paper resulted in a net loss of Rs. 61,702, while the substitution of country-made miscellaneous articles for articles of European manufacture effected a net gain of Rs. 5,820. The use of country-made paper of the descriptions known as white printing, badami or half-bleached, blotting, white cartridge, brown glazed, coloured, badami cartridge, cream-wove and azure-laid resulted in a loss during the year of no less than Rs. 1,70,123. The Superintendent has submitted an alternative statement showing that if all the charges incidental to the landing, storage, and despatch of English papers to distant places up-country were taken into account, there would be a net gain on all paper of Rs. 63,629 instead of a loss. In accordance with the orders contained in paragraph 9 of the Resolution on the Administration Report of the Stationery Department for 1897-98, the Standing Committee, appointed to consider the questions that from time to time arise in connection with the substitution of country-made for English stationery and the settling of contracts for Indian-made stationery, met on the 25th March 1899 to determine whether the seven kinds of paper under which there was a loss during that year should be obtained from England. In consequence of the stock in the Stationery Office being small, and the delay which was likely to occur in obtaining supplies from England, and the want of sufficient storage accommodation, the Committee was obliged to accept the tenders of the Indian mills for the current year, but the question of the future supply must be immediately settled.

10. The system of supplying newspapers and periodicals through the Stationery Office appears to have worked well during the year. There was a slight decrease in the number of periodicals, but newspapers, books and maps and exercise-books rose by 404, 5,351 and 22,299, respectively. The total payment for the newspapers, &c., amounted to Rs. 1,32,649, against Rs. 84,420 in the previous year. The increase is said to be mainly due to larger demands for newspapers, &c., and to the payment in advance in sterling for foreign periodicals.

11. The details of the work in the Form Branch will, as usual, be furnished in the report on the consumption of stationery in Bengal, and will be reviewed when that report is received. The receipts and issues of standard and special forms, exclusive of the survey and settlement forms printed and supplied direct by the Superintendent of Government Printing, Bengal, show a considerable increase as compared with the previous year. The advance in the receipts was due to the larger demands of local officers, and to the receipt during the year of certain forms which were due in 1897-98 and of over seven millions of High Court forms which were not due until 1899-1900. The increase in the issues is mainly attributable to these causes.

12. The receipts and charges of the Form Branch amounted to Rs. 35,385 and Rs. 47,470, against Rs. 37,763 and Rs. 47,637 respectively. The decrease in the receipts was due to a smaller demand for forms by the Local Funds in Bengal and Assam, while that in the charges is attributable to reduced expenditure under the head "Contingencies."

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

FIRST NOTE ON THE INDIGO CROP OF THE LOWER PROVINCES OF BENGAL FOR THE YEAR 1899.

THE following is published for general information.

REVENUE DEPT.,
The 6th October 1899.

F. A. SLACK,
Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First note on the Indigo crop of the Lower Provinces of Bengal for the year 1899.

Explanatory.—The present note furnishes estimates of the area and outturn of indigo in the twenty-one indigo-growing districts of these Provinces. The principal indigo-growing districts of Bengal are the five districts of "North Bihar" and the districts of Purnea, Malda, Nadia, and Murshidabad in "Lower Bengal." The figures of normal area have been revised by several district officers since the date of last year's report, in consequence of which the provincial total stands at 514,500 acres against 582,400 acres in 1898.

Character of the season.—The season was on the whole favourable for sowing and for the germination and early growth of the crop, but excessive and incessant rain in June, July, and August, together with floods due to that rainfall, ruined the prospects of a fair outturn.

Area sown.—The area under indigo in 1899 is estimated at 437,400 acres against 478,100 acres cultivated in 1898. The large decrease (about 14 per cent.) is due to the steady decline of the industry in the chief indigo-growing districts of Lower Bengal, especially in Midnapore, Nadia, Murshidabad, and Rajshahi, where several factories have been closed. It is anticipated that the area under this crop in North Bihar will shortly be reduced also, but no contraction is as yet observable.

Outturn.—Bhagalpur (90 per cent.) is the only indigo district of any importance in which an outturn of over 75 per cent. of the normal is anticipated. The average outturn expected in the three districts of Champaran, Muzaffarpur, and Darbhanga, in which 255,000 acres are under this crop, is only 57 per cent. It is probable that the average crop throughout Bengal and Bihar will not exceed 60 per cent. of a normal or 16-anna crop.

Messrs. Baines and Company estimate a total outturn of 15,250 factory maunds of indigo in the districts of Lower Bengal as against an outturn of 21,000 maunds in 1898. In Bihar the estimate of the first cuttings amounts to a total of 40,000 maunds against an outturn of 54,000 maunds from these cuttings in 1898. No complete estimate has yet been framed by this firm of the total outturn to be expected in Bihar. The reports received from all the chief indigo-growing districts are so gloomy that it seems improbable that the total outturn will exceed 15,000 maunds in Lower Bengal and 50,000 maunds in Bihar.

	Darbhanga ...	84,400	80,600	84,200	99	65	The crop was an excellent one, but the constant rain during the manufacturing season has ruined the produce, and several factories have sustained a great loss by floods.

The figures for normal area and the area sown last year have accordingly been changed.
	Bhagalpur ...	13,000	13,000	13,000	96	90	An average outturn is expected from all parts of the district, except the Madhipura subdivision.

FIRST FORECAST OF THE WINTER RICE CROP IN BENGAL, 1899.

THE following is published for general information.

F. A. SLACK,

The 10th October 1899. Offg. Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

DEPARTMENT OF LAND RECORDS AND AGRICULTURE, BENGAL.

First forecast of the winter rice crop in Bengal, 1899.

Explanatory.—This report gives estimates of the area and outturn of the winter rice crop up to the middle of September.

2. Character of the season.—The ante-monsoon showers, which are of great importance in the preparation of rice lands, commenced about the end of the first week of April. In this month, the rainfall was above the average throughout these Provinces, excepting North Bengal, where it was slightly in defect. In May, it was above the normal in East Bengal, Orissa, and South-West Bengal. In North Bengal and in the Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions, it was below the normal; and in the rest of Bihar, it was practically normal. The heaviest rain in this month fell in East Bengal, where the average for the whole division was 14 inches compared with a normal fall of 10 inches. The monsoon set in about the middle of June. Heavy rain fell in this month in all parts of these Provinces, excepting in Orissa, where there was a slight deficiency. The excess was marked in North Bengal, Chota Nagpur, and in some parts of Bihar and South-West Bengal. In July, the rainfall was exceptionally heavy and continuous over the greater part of the Province, Orissa and the south of Chota Nagpur being the only tracts where it fell short of the normal. The rainfall in August was excessive in North Bengal, East Bengal, and Bihar; but noticeably deficient in Chota Nagpur and Orissa. It was also a little below the normal in South-West Bengal. In September, the rainfall has been general, except in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, where it has been again in defect.

Area cultivated.—The figures of normal area under winter rice have been now revised in the districts of Rajshahi, Rangpur, Dacca, Noakhali, Saran, Purnea, and Manbhum, and, in consequence, the total normal area for the Province is now returned as 31,244,800 acres, against 30,987,000 acres returned in the final forecast of the winter rice crop of 1898. The area sown with winter rice this year is estimated at 31,349,600 acres against 31,685,500 acres sown in the previous year. The small contraction in area is due to the swamping of the low-lying rice areas by floods caused by excessive rain in the end of June, and in July and August, which prevented transplantation on many lands that had been already prepared for this crop. It is to be noticed, however, that the weather was favourable for sowing on high lands, so that the reduction of the area in low lands was compensated for, to some extent, by the cultivation of high lands not ordinarily grown with rice. In some districts jute supplanted rice, owing to a rise in its price, and a simultaneous fall in the price of rice at the close of last year.

4. Character of the crop.—From the district returns appended to this note, it will be seen that out of the 45 districts of these Provinces, 12 districts, viz., Midnapore, Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Bogra, Pabna, Dacca, Champaran, Bhagalpur, the Sonthal Parganas, Palamau, and Singhbhum, return estimates of crops above the normal of 100 per cent., six districts, viz., Birbhum, Mymensingh, Chittagong, Gaya, Malda, and Manbhum return normal crops; and 26 districts return crops varying from 75 per cent. to below 100 per cent. Only one district, viz., Angul, shows a poor crop of 50 per cent. The returns from Bihar vary considerably, those from North Bengal are uniformly high, while the estimates sent up from Central and East Bengal and Orissa are on the whole poor. On comparing the estimates of outturn for this year with the corresponding figures of last year, it will appear that 13 out of the 45 districts report better crops than those of last year, three report equal crops, and 29 worse crops.

5. Outturn.—The rice crop in many low-lying areas has been damaged by excess of rain in the latter half of June and in July and August, and insects are reported to have done some injury in the districts of Khulna, Dacca, Backergunge, Noakhali, and Puri. The weather has, however, been favourable during September, and prospects are good at present. Taking all these circumstances into consideration, it may be estimated that 95 per cent. of a normal outturn will be obtained, and it is possible that, if favourable showers fall in October and the crop is harvested in fine weather, the outturn may reach the normal.

Hooghly	Sadar	282,880	176,800	115,000	112,000	111,600	75	85	Owing to heavy rainfall during the early part of the season the low lands in many of the subdivisions were submerged and were unfit for cultivation. The transplantation of paddy plants was retarded in consequence. The recent rains have had a salutary effect on the standing plants, and the prospects of the outturn are hopeful.

24-Parganas	Sadar	533,760	463,700	255,700	340,500	338,400	100	96	The increase in the total area estimated to be under cultivation in column 4 as compared with the corresponding area shown in last year's forecast is due to the reclamation of large tracts of Sunderban lands in the Basirhat subdivision. The excessive rainfall in June and July destroyed the crops in the low lands, and delayed transplantation. The outturn is expected to be below the normal.

aran ...	Sadar	1,696,087	561,500	142,800	144,000	117,900	80	80	According to the settlement report, the area under winter rice has been altered from 117,100 to 81,600 acres in the Gopalganj subdivision. The extraordinary heavy rains at the very beginning of the season prevented transplantation of paddy on many low lands and in a considerable area the crop was submerged by floods due to heavy rainfall. But for the above reason a bumper crop would have been the result. The prospects of the crop on high lands are good.	I will ask for further enquiries as to the areas sown in the Siwan and Gopalganj Subdivision.

Palamau.—No rain. Days hot; nights cool. Upland paddy suffering much for want of rain. Rabi sowing is retarded. Prices are—rice 9½ seers, makai 16 seers, mandua 18 seers, barley 18 seers, wheat 12 seers, and gram 16 seers per rupee. Fodder and water sufficient.

Manbhum.—No rain. Weather seasonable. Bhadoi crops fair. Winter rice suffers from want of rain in some places. An average crop is expected. Cattle-disease reported from police-stations Gobindpur, Tundi, Topchanchi, and Nirsa. Fodder and drinking-water sufficient. Average price of common rice at Sadar 15 seers 9 chitaks and at Gobindpur 13 seers per rupee. Supply sufficient.

Singhbhum.—No rain. Distress is certain in the west of the district. Unless rain is received there will be a scarcity in the east also. Common rice sells at 14 seers 11 chitaks per rupee.

General Summary.—There was some rain in East Bengal and in a few places in Central Bengal during the week. The reports from Orissa and Chota Nagpur continue very unsatisfactory owing to the prolonged drought. Elsewhere the crops are in good condition, but some rain is now required for the high lands. The fields are being prepared for the spring crops, some of which are being sown. The price of rice is reported to have risen in the districts of the Patna Division and in Monghyr, Bhagalpur, Cuttack, Ranchi, Palamau, and Singhbhum: elsewhere it is almost stationary. Cattle-disease is reported from a few districts. Fodder is everywhere sufficient.

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park Street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently equal, and, finally, the thermometer which furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew Standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

RULES FOR THE APPOINTMENT OF SUB-INSPECTORS OF POLICE.

THE next divisional examination of candidates to fill vacancies in the rank of Sub-Inspector of Police will be held on the 18th and 19th December 1899 at the following centres:—at Calcutta (Senate House) for the Presidency, Rajshahi and Burdwan Divisions; at Bankipore for the Patna, Bhagalpur and Chota Nagpur Divisions; at Dacca for the Dacca and Chittagong Divisions; and at Cuttack for the Orissa Division. The following classes of candidates will be admissible to the examination:—

(a) Persons who have passed the Entrance Examination of the Calcutta, Allahabad or Punjab University, provided they are not less than 21 nor more than 25 years of age on the 30th June.

(b) Persons now serving as head-constables and writer-constables in the Police who have obtained the permission of the District Magistrate to appear at the examination, provided that they are not more than 30 years of age, and are of not less than two years' standing in the Department. This permission will only be given to persons who satisfy the conditions laid down in Rule 2.

2. No person will be deemed qualified who does not satisfy the following conditions:—

I.—That he has no disease, constitutional affection or bodily infirmity, unfitting him, or likely to unfit him, for police duties, and that he is up to the physical standard prescribed by Government circular No. 4436J., dated the 7th December 1892.

NOTE.—"Stuttering or Stammering" is a constitutional defect, and represents a physical disqualification.

II.—That he is of good moral character.

III.—That he belongs to a respectable family.

IV.—That he produces a certificate of ability to ride signed by a District Officer.

3. Applications for permission to appear at the examination must be submitted, not later than one month before the date fixed, to the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides, stating the place at which he desires to appear for examination. Each application from class (a) candidates must be accompanied by a fee of Rs. 5. All candidates will be required to satisfy the conditions specified in Rule 2 above. The certificate of health should be signed either by the Civil Surgeon of the district in which the candidate ordinarily resides, or in Calcutta by one of the Professors of the Calcutta Medical College. Forms of application are available in the offices of District Superintendents of Police.

The Magistrate should require a personal identification of each candidate by some known person, whose name should be recorded, and satisfy himself that the certificate* of respectability and moral character refers to the individual applying for permission to appear at the examination, and that those certificates are given by responsible and competent persons, whose opinion may be trusted. It is particularly important that candidates be of reputable parentage and antecedents. The candidate should be sent to the District Superintendent for a certificate as to physical fitness. This certificate should contain the applicant's descriptive roll, thumb impression, signature and address for purposes of identification. The District Superintendent will then obtain a health certificate, the fee for which will in all cases be Rs. 4, from the Civil Surgeon, and after seeing that all the certificates are in order send the applicant with his certificates to the Magistrate, who will, after subjecting the candidate to an examination in riding and noting the fact, grant a written permission to appear at the examination. To ensure thorough enquiry regarding a candidate's antecedents, the District Superintendent should issue verification rolls in the form prescribed in the Bengal Police Code, and the candidate should be informed that his appointment will be contingent on enquiries proving satisfactory.

BENGAL POLICE.

* I hereby certify that I have known ———— for ———— years, and from my own personal knowledge of his character and disposition I am of opinion that he is a steady, well-behaved young man, and I know him to be of good moral character.

Place ———— } Signature ————
Date ———— } Designation or profession ————

As these certificates form the verification rolls of candidates, they should be very carefully examined and enquiries made when necessary. A note should be taken of the names of candidates whose certificates do not cover the period immediately preceding the examination.

The above papers with the Treasury receipt for the examination fee, which should be paid into the Treasury, will be forwarded without delay by the Magistrate of the district in which the candidate resides to the Magistrate of the centre at which the candidate wishes to be examined.

The Examination Committee before the examination will compare the descriptions, thumb impressions (duplicate impressions being taken for the purpose, if necessary), and signatures, and satisfy itself about the identity of the person appearing.

At the examination a candidate will be required to sign the papers in every subject, writing his father's name and his own address on them to avoid confusion arising out of a similarity of names.

After the result of the examination is known, the certificates of passed candidates will be forwarded to the Principal of the Police Training School, Bhagalpur, and will then be treated as verification rolls.

The certificates of unsuccessful candidates will be returned, if asked for, within two months, or destroyed at the end of that period.

4. The subjects of examination will be as follows:—

I.—Dictation, Letter-drafting, Précis-writing, and a short translation from Bengali, Uriya or Hindi into English. Europeans and Eurasians will be allowed to choose one out of these three languages to be examined in. No candidate failing to obain half marks in this paper will be considered qualified for appointment.

II.—Paper on general knowledge. The questions will be set so as to test the general information and intelligence of candidates.

III.—Mathematics, including Euclid, Books I—IV, Arithmetic and Algebra, and account-keeping.

IV.—Law, including the Penal Code, the Criminal Procedure Code, and the Evidence Act.

N. B.—Class (b) candidates will be exempted from passing in Euclid and Algebra, alternative questions in Arithmetic being given.

5. The marks will be given on the following scale:—

1.	Dictation and language	200
2.	General knowledge	200
3.	Mathematics	200
4.	Law	200

6. The number of appointments which will be offered for competition at each centre will be notified later.

7. After the results of the examination have been ascertained, a list will be prepared of the candidates selected for appointment. Those who have not obtained half marks in dictation and language and one-third marks in the aggregate of the remaining papers may be struck out as ineligible for appointment. Of the remaining candidates, a list will then be composed as follows:—(a) one-half of the candidates who stand highest on the list in order of merit; (b) one-half of candidates selected from among those candidates who have obtained not less than one-third of the marks. At least two-thirds of the appointments will, if qualified candidates are available, be given to outsiders.

8. Natives of Bengal Proper will be eligible for appointments in all districts where Bengali is the vernacular of the district. Natives of Bihar will be eligible for appointments in districts where Hindi is the vernacular, and natives of Orissa for appointments in districts where Uriya is the vernacular. Selected candidates will be liable to be transferred to any district.

9. Selected candidates on appointment will undergo a three-months' course of instruction at the Bhagalpur Police Training School. This course will include drill, elementary surveying, anthropometry, and instruction in prosecuting cases in Magistrates' Courts. At the end of the three months all probationers obtaining a certificate of proficiency will be posted to districts and receive appointments in due course as 5th grade Sub-Inspectors. During the period of probation candidates will receive Rs. 20 a month as salary; on being passed out of the Training School, they will receive Rs. 30 a month as salary. 11. Candidates resident in any of the districts of the Patna, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur Divisions, who take up Hindi at this examination, will be considered to be natives of Bihar. Candidates competing at Cuttack who take up Uriya will be considered natives of Orissa.

12. Information as to the hour and place of examination can be obtained 15 days before the examination by applying to the District Magistrates of the 24-Parganas, Dacca, Patna, and Cuttack.

NOTICE TO MARINERS—No. 203.

[First Publication.]

NEW ZEALAND—SOUTH ISLAND—WESTPORT HARBOUR.

Alterations in leading marks and lights.

THE British Admiralty has given notice (No. 565 of 1899) that on and after 20th August 1899, the following alterations would be made in the leading marks and lights at Westport harbour (Buller river) in place of those formerly exhibited :—

BY DAY.—The beacons on the dolphins on the west side of Buller river mark the fairway for crossing the bar and lead up the river.

The front beacon is 30 feet high, and coloured white; it is 220 yards seaward of the back beacon. The back beacon is 50 feet high, white with a black band across the centre, and surmounted by a disc.

The above beacons in line bearing S. 25° E. lead up the river until approaching the lagoon, when course may be steered for the wharves.

BY NIGHT.—Two red lights shown on the above beacons bearing S. 25° E. must be kept in line until the white light on the eastern training-wall changes to green, when course may be steered for the wharves.

The seaward end of the coal-staiths is marked by a red light, elevated 36 feet above high water.

The extreme ends of the training-walls are marked by white lights.

All the other leading lights have been extinguished and the beacons from which they were shown discarded.

Approximate position, lat. 41° 44′ S., long. 171° 36′ E.

This Notice affects the following Admiralty Chart :—River Waiau to cape Foulwind, No. 2591: Also, List of Lights, part VI, 1899, Nos. 1506, 1507, 1508, 1509; New Zealand Pilot, 1891, pages, 398, 399; Hydrographic Notice No. 2 of 1895, page 13.

(15) Current demand of land revenue ...	Rs.	3,85,33,272	Rs.	3,90,03,120

The increase in the current demand has been obtained by revaluations and re-assessments in the districts of Burdwan, Mymensingh, and Backergunge.

The total collections show an increase of Rs. 1,34,752 over the figures of the previous year; but, owing to the enhanced demand, the balance outstanding at the close of the year increased by Rs. 32,004. The percentage of current collections on the current demand was 82·9 against 84·3, in 1897-98, and that of total collections on the current demand 99·6 against 99·0. The result was, on the whole, satisfactory.

2. In comparing the results of collections in the various districts as given in the following paragraphs, it should be noted that effect has not yet been given to the suggestion made by Government in 1894, that in calculating the percentage of collections on demand the amount affected by the 15 days' grace allowed by law, should be eliminated from the arrear. The Board propose to issue instructions which will ensure that this shall be done in future, and when this change is effected, the figures and explanations of the local officers will afford a juster criterion of the comparative standard of collections than they do at present. For the present year the mode of calculation hitherto adopted has been retained.

3. The following districts succeeded in attaining the accepted standard of cess administration for the first class, and showed a percentage of current collections above 90 per cent. and arrear collections above 80 per cent. during the year:—

District.	Percentage of current collections on net current demand.			Percentage of arrear collections on net arrear demand.
	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.

Darjeeling ...	99·9	99·7	99·8	94·6	94·4	100
Jalpaiguri ...	99·7	99·7	99·7	100	100	100

Noakhali ...	90·1	92·4	92·4	90·0	96·7	96·5

The number of districts under this class remains the same (13) as in the year 1897-98, but Birbhum has descended to class II and Hazaribagh and Rangpur to class III from class I of the preceding year, their places being taken by Nadia, Purnea, and Balasore. All of these districts, except the three named last, showed equally good results during the last three years, and the results are creditable to the officers concerned. Though Dinajpur, Puri, and Noakhali retain their former position, they show a decrease in both the current and arrear collections. Both current and arrear demands were realised in full in Singhbhum during 1897-98, but in the year under review the percentage of current collections on net current demand was 98·9. The districts of Jalpaiguri, Singhbhum, and Bogra succeeded in collecting the whole arrear demand.

4. The districts which fall into the second class, i.e., those which collected more than 90 per cent. of the current demand and less than 80 per cent. of the arrear demand are the following:—

DISTRICT.	Percentage of current collections on net current demand.			Percentage of arrear collections on net arrear demand.
	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.

Murshidabad ...	91·2	89·7	89 2	60·7	60·9	59·3
Gaya ...	90·8	76·3	74·0	76·9	89·2	84·6

Birbhum descended during the year from the first to the second class, owing, it is said, to the non-payment of the cesses till after the close of the year, by certain zamindars who are habitual defaulters and against whom certificates issued. Murshidabad and Gaya rose to this class from classes IV and III, respectively. In both these districts there was an improvement in the collection of current demand, but the arrear collections showed poor results. The short collections in Murshidabad are attributed to the difficulty experienced in realising cesses direct from rent-free lands, which were valued perfunctorily at the last revaluation. No explanation has been furnished of the falling off in Gaya, and the Collector has been requested to see that better results are secured in future.

5. In the districts of the third class mentioned below, the current collections fell short of 90 per cent. but the arrear collections exceeded 80 per cent.:—

* There is no March kist in this district.
† The last kist (25th February) of the year in this district became payable on the 12th of March 1899.

The figures in the first column of the above statement represent the percentage of current collections on the current demand of the districts against which they are noted, after eliminating the sums affected by the period of grace, which ended after the close of the year, for the realisation of which no coercive measures could be taken within the year. The balance thus arrived at is the true arrear for the collection of which the District Officer is responsible, and it is the figures in column 1 which must therefore be taken as the criterion of the work done. Nadia and Gaya have, as stated before, risen to classes I and II, respectively, while Manbhum and Mymensingh have descended to class IV. On the other hand, Rangpur and Hazaribagh have come down to this class from class I, and Cuttack, Faridpur, and Monghyr have gained a step. Eliminating the amounts affected by the period of grace, Khulna, Rangpur, Champaran, Backergunge, Hazaribagh, Darbhanga, Jessore, and Ranchi succeeded in attaining the prescribed standard for the first class, exceeding 90 per cent. The short collections in Rangpur were due to the absence of voluntary payments on account of the very low price of rice and other agricultural products. In Cuttack, collections were retarded by the defaults of some big zamindars, especially the zamindar of Aul. In Tippera and Ranchi, large sums, on account of the March kist, were realised after the close of the year. In the 24-Parganas the reason assigned is the same as in the last year, namely, that petty defaulters availing themselves of the concession granted in 1895, whereby the levy of interest for petty arrears was forbidden, withheld payment of cesses until the issue of attachment and sale notices. The bad outturn of crops during the last two years and the cyclone of 1897 told seriously upon the condition of the people of Chittagong, and account for the short collections in the district. The poor results in Muzaffarpur were due to the damage done by the floods of 1898. The prevalence of distress in the first quarter of the year and the failure of the jute crop from which the raiyats got most of their ready money are among the causes which contributed to the short collections in Jessore. With regard to Monghyr, the Board write:—"The majority of the zamindars pay their cesses through tipdars or agents, who appear to be in the habit of utilising the money of their constituents for their own benefit. The practice of paying Government demand through those agents, who watch the proceedings of the Arrear Collection Department and do not pay the cesses till certificates are ready to be filed, is one of the causes which impede the collection from reaching the prescribed standard." Midnapore has improved a little in collecting both current and arrear demands. The bad results in Palamau are attributable to defaults by the zamindars of Sonepura, Nowa, &c.

6. The districts of the fourth or lowest class, in which the current collections fell short of 90 per cent., and arrear collection of 80 per cent., are the following. This class contains nine districts against ten in the preceding year:—

District.	Percentage of current collections on net current demand.			Percentage of arrear collections on net arrear demand.
	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.	1898-99.	1897-98.	1896-97.
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
Pabna ... 94·8	89·6	92·3	90·1	70·1	72·3	72·1
Bhagalpur ... 93·8	87·2	86·1	88·9	74·0	76·7	88·0
Shahabad ... 92·9	84·3	85·5	82·4	69·8	77·3	76·7
Bankura ... 82·9	82 8	87·1	87·4	67·7	69·7	52·7
Burdwan ... 82·3	81·1	90·5	90·3	43·5	47·0	53·0
Mymensingh 85·5	77·0	88·2	90 1	79·9	93·0	87·6
Manbhum ... 80·7	72·0	76·7	50·1	66·5	89·4	99·5
Hooghly ... 72·4	68·5	73·8	63·7	57·5	48·8	53·2
Saran ... 73·8	59·5	63·9	56·2	70 6	68·8	79·3

The figures in the first column give the same information as the figures in the first column of the statement for third class districts. Saran, Hooghly, Shahabad, and Bankura have appeared in this list for the last four years, while Mymensingh and Manbhum have come down to this class from class III, and Pabna and Burdwan from class II. Eliminating the amounts affected by the period of grace, Pabna, Bhagalpur, and Shahabad attained the prescribed standard as regards current collections. Compared with the last year's figures, current collections fell off in Shahabad, Bankura, Hooghly, and Saran, while all these districts, except Shahabad, showed an improvement in arrear collections. The short collections in Shahabad are ascribed to the general unwillingness of the people to pay the cesses, and in Bankura to the payment by some of the big estates of their dues for the March kist after the close of the grace days. The disinclination of the proprietors to pay the cesses until coercive measures were enforced, the attempts on the part of numerous petty proprietors to evade payment in the hope that the co-sharers would pay their dues, and mistakes on the occasion of the last revaluation are reasons given to account for the falling off in Hooghly. Except the last mentioned one, however, no excuse is given for the shortness of collections which is not common to every district in the Province; and the Lieutenant-Governor hopes that better results may be obtained in future. The bad results in Saran are said to be due to the incorrect state of the Land Registration Register D, in consequence of which the work in the Certificate Department was delayed, and in many cases unsuccessful, and to the leniency shown in selling estates during the year; a leniency hardly to be justified in view of the continued bad results of the last four years. The Board of Revenue rightly consider the explanation inadequate, and have drawn the special attention of the Commissioner to the matter. In Pabna, many of the proprietors did not pay their dues until coercive measures were taken; and notices of certificates for less than Rs. 5 made out for the last kist of 1897-98 were not issued till December 1898 in accordance with the rules as to water districts. In regard to Burdwan, the Board write :—(i) "The current demand was considerably raised, and the amount by which it was raised could not be realised on account of the new assessment having been made late in the year; (ii) a sum of Rs. 10,168 was remitted by the Maharaja of Kasim Bazar after the close of the year; (iii) Rs. 24,898 was also realised after the close of the year from the Burdwan Raj; (iv) evasion of payment of arrears by parties who try to throw the burden of payment on their co-sharers; (v) difficulty experienced in the realisation of arrears from revenue-free estates and rent-free holdings under direct collection on account of the non-registration of names by most of the proprietors and their successors and of the transfer of rights and titles necessitating in many cases the issue of fresh certificates." The collections in Mymensingh were retarded by the defaults of some of the proprietors of large estates, while the poor results in Manbhum were due to the non-payment of the cesses due by certain encumbered estates. Compared with the figures for the previous year, Bhagalpur showed an improvement in current collections; but as the arrear lists for the whole year 1897-98 could not be prepared kist after kist, there was a falling off in the percentage of arrear collections. This explanation, as the Board rightly observe, is not satisfactory.

7. The following statement illustrates the working of the certificate procedure in the realisation of the cesses during the last two years :—

	1897-98.	1898-99.
Certificates pending from the previous year ...	52,493	44,572
Filed during the year	101,410	125,216
Total for disposal	153,903	169,788
Cancelled on objection	1,601	1,147
Struck off	5,210	6,724
Fully discharged	102,517	105,350
Pending at the close of the year	44,575	56,567
Sales effected	2,866	3,323
Sales set aside	51	142

The number of certificates filed during the year 1898-99 has increased by 23,806. The incease occurred in all the Divisions except Rajshahi, Bhagalpur, and Chota Nagpur. The largest number of certificates was filed in the districts of Hooghly (10,567), Saran (10,536) Gaya (8,969), Midnapore (8,555), Patna (8,246) Chittagong (7,413) Shahabad (6,020) Darbhanga (5,431) Muzaffarpur (5,314) and Cuttack (5,183). The number of objections filed against certificates was 8,142 against 7,658 in 1897-98. In Saran, Hooghly, Dacca, Gaya, and Murshidabad, the number of cancellations was 191, 172, 141, 104, and 101 out of 835, 1,835, 581, 434 and 126, objections disposed of respectively. The defective state of land registration is the cause of the large number of cancellations in Saran and Dacca. In Hooghly, it was due to double assessment, reduction of valuation on objection, and to failure to trace out lands or their holders. In Murshidabad and also in Mymensingh, it is attributed "partly to the death of the judgment-debtors before the certificates were filed, and partly to the mistakes discovered on objections being filed that the judgment-debtors were not liable for the amount under certificate:" in other words, to carelessness in the Collector's office. Closer supervision is evidently required in these two districts. In 3,323 cases, as against 2,866 in 1897-98, sales were effected to realise the cesses. The increase was due to a large number of sales in Gaya, and the Board have asked the Collector to explain the cause.

8. Partial valuations and revaluations were completed in the districts of Midnapore, 24-Parganas, Khulna, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Jalpaiguri, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Bogra, Faridpur, Backergunge, Tippera, Shahabad, Malda, and Hazaribagh. In Khulna, only 82 estates were revalued, and the valuation of these estates showed an increase of Rs. 1,10,122 over the previous valuation. The Board have asked the Commissioner of the Presidency Division whether the general revaluation of the district can be undertaken. In Darjeeling, the revaluation of the Terai jotes and of the West Teesta khas mahals, which was sanctioned in October 1897, came to a close during the year. The valuation of the Terai jotes showed an increase of Rs. 51,634 over the previous valuation. Valuation and revaluation work was in progress in several districts when the year closed.

9. Statement VI appended to the report compares the gross rental in each district for 1898-99 calculated from the returns under the Cess Act with the gross rental ascertained on the same basis when the road cess was first introduced and the gross rental of the preceding year. The results of the Province are as follow:—

		Rs.
Gross rental at first assessment	... ...	13,11,68,432
Ditto in 1897-98	... ...	16,35,06,247
Ditto in 1898-99	... ...	16,53,73,177

The increase up to date amounts to Rs. 3,42,04,745 on the rental when the road cess was introduced. The increase occurred in all the districts, except Murshidabad and Jessore. Compared with the figures for the last year, the gross rental shows an increase of Rs. 18,66,930, which, it is said, has been ascertained by revaluation, chiefly in the districts of Burdwan, Midnapore Khulna, Rajshahi, Dinajpur, Darjeeling, Rangpur, Dacca, Mymensingh, Backergunge, Tippera, Manbhum, and Singhbhum.

10. The names of the Deputy Collectors whose work is favourably noticed by the Board will be communicated to the Appointment Department. The work on the whole has been excellent, and the Lieutenant-Governor's thanks are due to the Board of Revenue.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF SEPTEMBER 1899.

WEATHER was less settled over the Bay in September than during the previous months of the present monsoon season, but no disturbance of more than average severity occurred. Two depressions formed over the Bay—one during the second week, the other towards the end of the third week—both of which had an important influence on the rainfall distribution in Bengal, and the former of the two in the area to the west of the province.

The line of advance of the small cyclonic disturbances throughout the season has been, sooner or later, northwards or north-eastward, and the two which formed during the month were not exceptional in this respect. The first crossed the coast of the Circars in a westerly direction. It afterwards turned northwards, and when in the North-West Provinces the line of advance changed to east. Though by that time the depression had become very shallow, it caused, during its eastward advance across Bihar and North Bengal, heavy general rainfall for several days. Practically the only rainfall which was received during the month in the extreme west of Bihar was due to this disturbance. Between the 15th and 18th there occurred the greater part of the total fall for the month in Shahabad, Saran, and Champaran, amounting on an average to 5 inches.

The second disturbance began about the 18th, probably in the south of the Bay, and moving northwards developed into a cyclonic storm of moderate severity before the centre crossed the coast into Bengal near Saugor Island. Inland the depression remained well defined till the centre was near Malda at 8 A.M. on the 24th, after which it rapidly filled up and had entirely disappeared by the following day.

The most noteworthy features of the disturbance were connected with the rainfall: (1) in its being unusually heavy in parts of the track of the central area, more especially in the phenomenal fall over the Darjeeling Hills, on approaching which the disturbance broke up and in a few hours ceased to exist: (2) in the area of heavy rainfall being far north of the low pressure area and the centre of the cyclonic wind circulation, as shown by the observations at the ground level.

The heavy rainfall not unusually precedes the depression, but in this case the rain had practically ceased at the various places over which the depression passed hours before the centre of the depression reached them. At Calcutta, for example, the heavy rainfall began on the evening of the 22nd and ceased on the morning of the 23rd, about 12 hours before the centre of the low pressure area passed. The rainfall extended rapidly northwards and began in North Bengal, while the depression area was still in the south of the province.

Taking into consideration the fact that at the only high level station from which information is available, viz. Pedong, the heavy rainfall began and ended twenty-four hours before that at Darjeeling, and also the separation of the area of heavy rainfall from the depression shown in the lower atmospheric strata, it appears possible that the phenomenal character of the rainfall was due to a disturbance in the higher strata as to which there can, of course, be only surmise.

The rainfall which began on Saturday, the 23rd, was maintained during the 24th and part of the 25th in the Himalayas in consequence of the depression reaching the hilly region as a well defined depression of moderate depth and thereafter breaking up in the course of a few hours, an occurrence which is invariably attended by heavy rainfall, at times over a much wider area than that immediately under the influence of the cyclonic wind circulation.

At the beginning of the month the pressure distribution was normal over the Bay, but as there was a considerable defect inland, the gradient was steeper than usual at that season. A fairly strong monsoon was blowing across the Bengal coast with an easterly tendency, and though rainfall was fairly general, the only heavy falls occurred in East and North Bengal. Temperature variation from the normal varied from excess of 7° in the south of the Circars to defect of 3° in North Bengal. A steady moderate rise of pressure followed, the strength of the monsoon current diminished, and rainfall became light and scattered first in the west of the province, and after two or three days interval in the eastern districts. Fairly heavy general rainfall continued in East Bengal till the 5th and in North Bengal till the 7th, after which rainfall almost entirely ceased till the 10th, except in the extreme north of North Bengal.

During the early part of the month pressure was steadily above the normal over the province with general westerly winds. On the 9th a diffused low pressure area appeared over the north of the Bay, and led to a change of winds and indraught from the land across the Bengal coast, owing to which rainfall, as noted above, almost entirely ceased at inland stations.

The depression continued shallow, and moving westward crossed the coast of the Circars on the 11th, then moved north-westward, and on the 14th was shown as a shallow diffused low pressure area over the North-Western Provinces. Up to that time south-easterly winds prevailed over Bengal, and general, though usually light, rainfall prevailed over the province, except in Bihar.

After the 14th the shallow depression moved eastward into Bengal and gave heavy rain to the northern districts during its passage. The falls were heavy and general in the west of Bihar on the 15th, and rain continued fairly general in that region for about three days. The area of heavy rain followed the course of the depression eastward, the heaviest falls occurring in North Bengal on the 17th and 18th.

About that time weather was becoming unsettled in the south of the Bay, but was not apparent at the coast stations, except by the steeper gradient in Madras and Ceylon. The depression moved northwards, but did not become well defined till the 21st, when lowest pressure was near the centre of the northern part of the Bay. Strong winds prevailed over the southern area, and on the 22nd the average velocity increased to 25 miles an hour at Diamond Island. The disturbance advanced slowly northward, and on the morning of the 23rd the centre was near Saugor Island with a depth, as compared with the normal, of about ·25 inch.

During its approach heavy rain had fallen in South-West Bengal and the adjacent parts of Orissa and Chota Nagpur, Saugor Island, Balasore and Purulia, all receiving at least six inches within the previous 24 hours.

On the morning of the 24th the depression lay over North Bengal and the east of Bihar, and was of about the same depth as when at the head of the Bay. Cyclonic winds of moderate strength prevailed over the province, and very heavy rain fell to the north-west of the central area, notably at Bhagalpur, Banka, Araria, Forbesganj, Godda, Mohajama and Barkope, all of which received between 10 and 15 inches.

During the 24th the depression appears to have turned eastward, and moving in a north-easterly direction broke up on reaching the hills. That there was no definite depression during the heavy rainfall on the 25th in the lower ranges of the hills may be inferred from the pressure changes which occurred at Darjeeling. Pressure fell ·05 inch on the 24th and rose ·08 inch on the 28th, these changes being no larger than frequently occur under ordinary circumstances. The heavy rainfall probably extended some distance westward into Nepal, but eastward it fell off rapidly in amount.

At 8 A.M. on the 25th all signs of the disturbance had ceased, except that there was a faint cyclonic circulation of winds in North Bengal. Pressure had risen very rapidly over the province, and, being in excess of the normal, fine weather became general, and continued, practically without rainfall, till the end of the month.

Pressure changes were small throughout the month, except during the passage of the depression between the 23rd and 25th, when there was first a rapid fall, then a very rapid recovery, the rise in North Bengal between 8 A.M. of the 24th and the same hour of the 25th being ·3 inch. On an average for the month pressure was above the normal by nearly ·05 inch in the south-western districts and between ·01 and ·02 inch in other parts.

Temperature.—Temperatures were high during a great part of the month, except in the north-east. In Assam and the adjacent part of North Bengal there was considerable defect, greatest at Dhubri, where it was 2°·4. From the north-east excess increased towards the west and south-west, and was as much as 4° in part of Orissa and Chota Nagpur. Minimum temperature was practically normal over the whole province.

Mean excess was 2° in Orissa and Chota Nagpur, 1°·7 in South-West Bengal, 1° in Bihar, and about half a degree in East and North Bengal.

The following table gives a condensed summary of the rainfall statistics of the present year up to date for each meteorological division, the first nine columns giving the actual average falls in each division for each month expressed as a percentage of the normal, while the tenth column gives the actual rainfall of the first nine months as a percentage of the normal rainfall for that period:—

Rainfall.—At the beginning of September the low pressure in the east of the province diverted the moist winds from the Bay in that direction, and general moderately heavy rain was of daily occurrence in East and North Bengal and the adjacent part of Assam. As pressure rose, the rainfall area contracted towards the east, and had practically ceased in East Bengal by the 7th, but continued in North Bengal till the 10th.

The rainfall during the remainder of the month was caused by the two disturbances referred to above. The first caused general showery weather, though not heavy rain, till it began to move eastward from the North-West Provinces about the 15th, after which for several days heavy falls were numerous in Bihar and North Bengal.

About the 19th the second disturbance began to cause indraught from the province towards the Bay with the consequent decrease of rainfall, but as it moved northwards heavy rain set in and preceded the storm over a tract of country of varying breadth extending from the north-west of the Bay northwards to Bhagalpur, after which it turned north-eastward across the Nepal Terai towards the Sikkim hills. The areas of heaviest rainfall were in Manbhum, Godda, Bhagalpur, and from the extreme north of Purnea, north-eastward. In these the falls were from 10 to 15 inches and in the hills from 15 inches upwards. Over the tract of varying breadth lying from south to north the falls varied between 5 and 10 inches, while to the east and west only light or moderate rain fell.

The total rainfall for the month was in defect except in the extreme east, where rainfall was fairly continuous throughout, and in the districts over which the storm of the 23rd to 25th passed. The areas of excess are in South-West Bengal, Manbhum, North Bengal, the west of Bihar, and part of East Bengal. The excess was small except in the northern districts, where it was generally between 5 and 10 inches, and in the Darjeeling Hills, where it was between 15 and 20 inches.

In Orissa and the west of Chota Nagpur there was a large defect, generally between 5 and 8 inches, and in the parts of the province other than those referred to above there was usually a small defect. On an average for the large divisions North Bengal received 2·5 inches in excess, East Bengal 1·7, and Bihar practically the normal amount. The defect in South-West Bengal was less than 1 inch, in Chota Nagpur 3 5 inches, and in Orissa nearly 5 inches.

The following table contains full data for the comparison of the actual and normal rainfall of the month of September in all districts of the province. The figures are derived from the average and actual rainfall of the rain-recording stations in each district, due allowance or weight being made for the area which each station represents. This gives a more accurate average than the arithmetical means given in the monthly meteorological tables. The first column gives the normal or average district rainfall as determined from the rainfall observations of the past 25 years; the second column gives the actual district rainfall as determined from the weighted actual rainfalls of the month at the reporting stations in each district; the third column expresses the ratio of the actual district fall of the past month to the normal rainfal as a percentage; and the fourth column states as a percentage how much the district rainfall for the month varied from the normal:—

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

(See section 224.)

Year.	No.	Short title.	Extent of repeal.
1882	I	The Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1882.	The whole.
1891	XII	The Repealing and Amending Act, 1891.	So much of section 2 and the first schedule as relates to Act I of 1882.
1893	VII	The Inland Emigration Act, 1893.	The whole.
1897	V	The Repealing and Amending Act, 1897.	So much of section 2 and of the first and second schedules as relates to Act I of 1882.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In this Bill it is proposed to amend the Assam Labour and Emigration Act (Act I of 1882 as amended by Act VII of 1893) in accordance with the decisions arrived at by the Government of India and the Secretary of State after considering the recommendations of the Labour Enquiry Commission of 1895 and the reports of Local Governments on the working of the Act since its amendment in 1893. The chief object with which these amendments are proposed is to give power to Local Governments, not only to prohibit emigration absolutely, but also to bring unlicensed professional recruiters and labour-contractors under official control by forbidding recruitment of any kind, except in accordance with the provisions of the Act. Where a Local Government exercises this latter power, the unlicensed professional recruiter and unlicensed contractor will disappear. Intending emigrants will be registered in the district in which they are recruited, and will subsequently be placed under contract in or near the same district at such convenient centre as the Local Government may determine. It will no longer be permissible for persons to be conveyed outside the safeguards and precautions of the Act from the jungles of the Central Provinces or Chota Nagpur to Dhubri, and there placed under contract by unlicensed recruiters or contractors as "free" emigrants. Genuinely "free" or "unassisted" emigration to Assam will, however, not be interfered with, and a free emigrant on arrival there will still be able to enter into a statutory labour-contract.

2. Recruitment through certificated garden-sardars working under the supervision of a local agent will not be materially affected by the Bill. But, with the object of encouraging sardari recruitment, a special procedure is provided, whereby garden-sardars, on being furnished with permits from their respective employers, will be allowed to recruit outside the other provisions of the Act, and to convey their recruits outside its provisions to Assam. This procedure gives legal recognition to the existing practice by which the greater portion of the labour in Sylhet and Cachar is obtained. Further, provision is also made for facilitating recruitment through garden-sardars working under the control of approved agencies or associations of employers of labour.

3. These and other amendments of the present law are more fully detailed in the subjoined Notes on Clauses.

The 7th October, 1899. C. M. RIVAZ.

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 3.—Section 5 of the existing Act I of 1882 takes power for the Local Government to prohibit absolutely all, or any specified class of, natives of India from emigrating from any place or places in the Province to a labour-district or part thereof; and section 7 provides that, save as aforesaid, nothing in the Act shall be deemed to interfere with free emigration outside its provisions altogether. These two sections have here been combined, and two modifications have been made in the former. In the first place, the clause is now directed against, not natives of India emigrating, but persons engaging or assisting them to emigrate, the necessary sanction for the prohibition being found in the corresponding penal clause (clause 166) of the Bill, which—like section 146 of the Act—punishes illegal recruitment. And, secondly, an alternative power is taken to forbid recruitment "otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the Act".

Clause 5 (4).—It is proposed to raise the minimum monthly wage from Rs. 5 to Rs. 6 in the case of a man, and from Rs. 4 to Rs. 5 in the case of a woman.

Clause 9.—To section 11 of the Act, which declares that nothing in the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall prevent a person of the age of sixteen years or upwards from entering into a labour-contract, has been added the proviso that no woman may enter into such a contract without the consent of her husband or guardian, if she be married or under lawful guardianship.

Clause 12.—In the present Act provision is made separately in each case for recovering expenditure incurred on behalf of, and moneys declared to be due from, employers of labour and others, and the procedure indicated is sometimes that prescribed for the recovery of arrears of land-revenue, sometimes distress and sale of moveable property, and sometimes recourse to the Civil Courts. It is now proposed to adopt in all cases the process of recovery, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction where the defaulter or other person specified is for the time being resident, by the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to him and found within the limits of the Magistrate's jurisdiction, and this is laid down once for all by clause 216. Elsewhere throughout the Bill all that is done is to specify the person from whom the particular moneys referred to are to be recoverable.

Clause 25.—The addition provides that no recruiter shall be licensed to act on behalf of more than one contractor, or within the local limits of more than one district.

Clause 32.—It is here proposed that the medical officer appointed by the Local Government to examine emigrants should not be required to certify more as regards an intending labourer than that he is fit to undertake the journey to Assam and is "not incapacitated, by reason of any obvious bodily defect or infirmity, for labour in the labour-districts." If more than this is desired by employers of labour, it will be open to them—see clauses 46 and 47 of the Bill—to secure a further and more searching medical examination before registration.

Clause 33.—The additional words will enable the Local Governments to establish offices for registration at convenient centres.

Clause 35.—This new provision has been added in order that suitable arrangements may be made for the return to their homes of labourers whom a registering-officer has found it necessary to refuse to register.

Clause 44.—It is proposed that a labour-contract should be executed after an interval of three days, as well as before, the expiration of thirty days, from the arrival of the labourer at the depôt. And the proviso, which is new, lays it down that no labour-contract shall be executed except in the district of recruitment or at some other place within the province. The execution of labour-contracts at Dhubri (the head-quarters station of the Goalpara district) to labour in other districts of the Brahmaputra Valley, will thus no longer be admissible, and consequently the provisions of sections 112-A and 112-B of the Act have, it will be found, been omitted from the Bill.

Clause 48.—It will, under this provision, be within the discretion of the Superintendent to send a labourer who is prevented from proceeding further on the journey to Assam, back to his native district instead of merely to the place at which he was registered. Consequential alterations have been made in the succeeding clauses.

Clause 56.—This provision has been altered so as to limit the scope of employment of garden-sardars by providing that the certificate of a garden-sardar shall authorize him to recruit within the limits of a single district only.

Clause 61.—The certificate of a garden-sardar should, if his operations are to be effectively controlled, be countersigned not only in the labour-district from which he is sent, but also in the district in which he is to recruit. The provisions of section 56 of the Act have been amplified accordingly.

Clause 63.—Where a garden-sardar's certificate is cancelled away from the place in which it was originally accepted and signed, notice of the fact should be given to the Inspector or Magistrate in whose presence it was so accepted and signed; and, whenever an employer cancels a certificate granted by him, the cancellation should be notified both to the Inspector or Magistrate before whom the certificate was accepted and signed by the garden-sardar, and also to the District Magistrate of the district in which the certificate authorized the garden-sardar to recruit labourers. This has here been fully provided for.

Clauses 68 and 69.—The provisions of the second paragraph of section 62 of the Act are here reproduced, but in an imperative, instead of a permissive, form. The effect of this will be that when a local agent, specially licensed under clause 67, engages labourers on behalf of his employer, without the intervention of a garden-sardar, he must forthwith register them and place them under contract as though he were a garden-sardar himself.

Clauses 74 and 77.—The remarks regarding clause 32 will explain the alterations made in these provisions.

Clause 76.—The provisions of section 69 of the Act have here been added to so as to require the execution of labour-contracts after an interval of three days from registration as well as within fifteen days therefrom.

Clauses 85 and 88.—Provision is here made for the return in certain cases of labourers and their dependants either home or to the place of registration, according as the Magistrate or Embarkation Agent may think fit and proper.

Chapter V.—This Chapter, which is entirely new, has been inserted with the object of enabling the Government to facilitate sardari recruitment as far as circumstances will admit. Clause 93 first provides for the issue of a notification allowing recruitment by specially appointed garden-sardars, to whom permits are to be given by their employers and who are to be guided thereby, merely reporting their proceedings to the magisterial authorities in the recruiting districts. Clause 94 next proposes a simple system of recruitment by garden-sardars working under the control of recruiting agencies or associations formed and conducted under rules approved by the Local Government, power being also taken for the Local Government to relax the provisions of Chapter IV in the case of garden-sardars employed in the usual way thereunder, if working subject to such control as aforesaid. And, finally, clause 95, by way of precaution, enables the Local Government at any time to step in, if necessary, and suspend or modify the operation of the foregoing provisions.

Clause 126.—As emigrants from, say, Ganjam or the Central Provinces cannot be expected to know Bengali, provision is here made for translations into other languages of the prescribed schedules of task-work.

Clause 162.—The words "or has forwarded or otherwise assisted him to emigrate" have been added so as to cover all garden-sardars and recruiters engaged in recruiting operations.

Clause 164 (4).—It is here expressly provided that all rules shall, on publication, "have effect as if enacted by this Act".

Clause 175.—This new clause is consequential on the inclusion in the Bill of the provisions contained in Chapter V.

Clauses 205-207.—It is thought that, where a labourer is sent to prison for absenting himself or for desertion, the term of his contract ought not to be extended by the period of his imprisonment. The provisions of sections 182, 182-A, 182-B and 182-C of the Act have been modified so as to give effect to this view.

Clause 213.—Section 145 of the Act contains a somewhat unusual provision to the effect that the Local Government may, subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, by rule, prescribe a penalty "for the infringement of any provision of this Act for a breach of which a penalty is not expressly provided". It is proposed to substitute for it this more familiar clause, which itself fixes the penalty for any such breach.

Clause 216.—This has already been explained in connection with clause 12 above.

General.—The remaining amendments, all of which are indicated by means of italics, are believed to be of a formal character.

(4) Where an agent fails to perform any act which he is by any rule hereunder required to perform, any officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf may cause the act to be performed, and the cost, together with simple interest thereon at the rate of six per cent. per annum, may be recovered, on application to a Magistrate having jurisdiction where the agent is for the time being resident, by the distress and sale of any moveable property within the limits of the Magistrate's jurisdiction belonging to the agent.

Repeal.

4. The Inland Emigrants' Health Act, 1889, and so much of the Repealing and Amending Act, 1897, as relates to that Act, are hereby repealed. Bengal Act I of 1889. V of 1897.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

By an Act of the Bengal Council No. I of 1889, entitled the Inland Emigrants' Health Act, 1889, provision is made for securing proper arrangements with a view to guarding against sickness and mortality among labourers recruited otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the Assam Labour and Emigration Act, 1882, on their way to Assam from Lower Bengal, the operation of the enactment being, of course, confined to the latter Province. It is proposed now to repeal that Act and to replace it by an Act of the Governor General's Council capable of application to any part of British India. This Bill has been prepared accordingly, and its provisions are intended also to supplement the new provisions which have, with the object of facilitating emigration to the labour-districts, been included in another Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to such emigration, which it is proposed to introduce simultaneously in the Supreme Council.

The 7th October, 1899.

2. The following table shows the total number of registrations, the number of offices open, and the financial results of the working of the department for the last four triennial periods. For the last period the figures are also given for the several years:—

There is a steady progress in registration in Bengal, closely corresponding, as was to be expected, to the increase in the sale of non-judicial stamps, which was discussed in a recent Resolution. The total number of deeds registered during the period under review is larger than that in any of the three preceding triennial periods The increase is equally noticeable in the case of deeds of which the registration is compulsory, and of those which it is at the option of the parties to register or not, and it is not confined to deeds relating to immoveable property, but extends to other classes of documents. A marked feature of the period is a rapid increase of registration in Orissa. The increase for the whole triennial period as compared with that preceding is in that tract 33 per. cent., and in 1898 99 compared with 1895-96 it was no less than 72 per cent The Inspector-General asserts that the recent settlement operations in the Division have left the impression that occupancy tenancies are transferable, and that many transfers have in consequence been made. Whatever the impression, there is no question as to the fact of the sudden and large expansion of transfers in Orissa. It appears from Statement XIII of the Inspector-General's report that the great bulk of these transfers is from one raiyat to another, but in Puri the sales to the money-lending classes are now ominously frequent, and enquiries will be made through the Board of Revenue. The total receipts of the triennial periods show a steady advance in the income of the department, although the surplus left after meeting the expenditure fluctuates. The largest surplus was that obtained for the triennium 1890-91 to 1892-93, which amounted to Rs. 19,69,424. The next period showed a considerable decrease, and it was explained in the last triennial Resolution that this was attributable to the orders of 1893, under which the minimum ad valorem registration fee was reduced from twelve to eight annas. The immediate effect of the reduction has since been counterbalanced by an increase in the number of deeds, and the surplus for the period which expired with the last financial year was Rs. 19,33,575, nearly reaching the high figure mentioned above. Expenditure nearly keeps pace with the increase in receipts, but 83 per cent. of the charges consist of the commission fees and fixed salaries, which are regulated by rule; the cost of establishment is moderate, and the Lieutenant-Governor finds no reason to suppose that there is any want of economy in the working of the depatment. During this period registrations were most numerous in 1897-98, when the prevalence of famine and distress in many districts, especially those of Bihar, caused larger recourse to sales, mortgages and borrowing on money-bonds. Good crops and the consequent return of prosperity led to a decline in registration during the past year 1898-99, but the total number of documents was nevertheless higher than in 1896-97, which also included some months of distress, and evidence is thus afforded of the tendency on the part of the people to avail themselves more and more of registration. In the recent Resolution on the Administration of the Stamp Department, notice was taken of the marked fall in the sale of documentary stamps in 1898-99 as evidence of the rapid recovery of the people from the effects of famine. There is similar evidence in the registration returns, but on the stamps side the high water-mark was reached in 1896-97; on the registration side it was not reached till 1897-98. Registration is of course a later stage in a transaction than the execution of the deed which embodies it; but it is not uninstructive that registration is not always so immediate as was to be expected.

This is the fourth triennial report on the working of the department submitted to Government. It will be convenient if, in preparing such reports in future, the Inspector-General of Registration will base his remarks and comparisons more on the figures and results of the triennial period rather than on those of the single year which has just elapsed, the latter being noticed also where they call for comment.

3. Compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property.—The following statement furnishes the figures for deeds affecting immoveable property, the registration of which is compulsory, for the four last triennial periods:—

The large increase in deeds of gift presented for registration was noticed in the Government Resolution of 1896. The period under review shows a further considerable increase, the total number of such deeds for the last triennial period being 29,324, as compared with 25,376 in the period preceding. The districts showing the largest number of these deeds relating to immoveable property are Midnapore, Dacca, Tippera, and Mymensingh. The three last districts have a large Muhammadan population, whose power of disposing of property by will is restricted by their law, and the Inspector-General believes that there is a growing tendency to meet this disability by the device of transferring property by gift in old age or failing health. Gifts of property are also frequently made to wives for the marriage dower, or by persons starting on a distant pilgrimage. Generally deeds of gift are more numerous in the districts of Bengal Proper than in Bihar and Orissa.

The total number of deeds of sale of immoveable property registered during the triennial period was 1,061,983, as compared with 882,427 in the preceding period, the increase being observed in deeds of both under and over Rs. 100 in value. The highest figure was reached in 1897-98, and a considerable fall occurred in the past year, a season of plenty having succeeded two years of pressure. Out of the total of 1,061,983 deeds of sale registered during the last triennial period, no less than 736,033 related to raiyati holdings, 166,341 of which were held at fixed rates, and the remainder with the right of occupancy. The subjoined statement shows the large rise in registration of deeds of this class :—

The figures, the Lieutenant-Governor is glad to see, indicate no increase in the percentage of those holdings which pass into the hands of money-lenders, the transactions being chiefly and increasingly between raiyats. The Inspector-General should have quoted the High Court rulings to which he alludes as affecting transfers of holdings in Champaran and Dacca. It is understood that he refers, in one case, to the decision of the High Court of 1897, reported in the Calcutta Series, volume XXIV, page 355, in the case of Bhiran Ali Shaik Shikdar (defendant) versus Gopi Kant Shaha (plaintiff), in which it was ruled that, in the absence of local usage or custom to the contrary, occupancy holdings are not saleable otherwise than at the instance of the landlord seeking satisfaction for a decree for arrears of rent. Enquiry will be made in the Revenue Department in regard to the practice which is said to have sprung up in Champaran under which the landlord requires the tenant who desires to transfer to formally surrender the land, and takes a fee (salami) or enhanced rent from the incoming tenant. It may be noted that land so surrendered does not, as stated, become zerat or proprietor's land, but remains raiyati land. Instruments of mortgage are only subject to compulsory registration where immoveable property of a value of Rs. 100 or upwards is hypothecated. The number of such deeds for the period under review was 419,464, compared with 356,745 for the preceding triennial period. The year 1897-98, for the reason already mentioned, shows the largest figure yet attained under this head, the next highest being that for the last year of the triennial period. Most districts share the falling off in numbers in this year, compared with that preceding. Among the exceptions are Mymensingh and Tippera. In the former, it is explained that transfers of occupancy rights having been declared to be void unless sanctioned by custom, mortgages have taken their place. In Tippera it is remarked that money-lenders are now less willing than formerly to advance funds on a simple bond, and require the security afforded by a mortgage. If, in Tippera, the mortgage of occupancy rights is valid at all, this change of practice will be beneficial by bringing the raiyat face to face with the dangers of debt to his tenure. The interesting information which the Inspector-General gives will be brought to the special notice of the Board of Revenue.

The bulk of the remaining transactions under this head consists of leases, of which the total for the period was 1,113,922, as compared with 1,003,132 in the preceding triennial period. The increase has occurred in both perpetual and term leases. Perpetual leases are most numerous in the littoral or other districts of Bengal traversed by large rivers, where large alluvial areas are settled or resettled, and tenants require the inducement of a permanent tenancy to undertake the expense of clearing the land. The average area of land taken on the term leases is comparatively small, the annual rental being Rs. 25 or under in no less than 76·4 per cent. of the total number.

The proportion of lettings in which pattas are given to the lessee as evidence of the terms of his holding has somewhat decreased in the period under review, as compared with the triennial period preceding. The reluctance of zamindars to grant pattas to the tenants executing kabuliyats for their holdings has been commented on in past reports and resolutions. The Inspector-General ascribes it correctly to disinclination on account of the expense and inconvenience involved, to an idea among the bigger zamindars especially that their dignity would suffer, and to an apprehension that pattas would assist the tenants in establishing occupancy rights. Where settlements are made under Chapter X of the Tenancy Act, the need for pattas and kabuliyats disappears, their place being taken by entries in the settlement records. It is nowhere usual to grant pattas for leases of raiyati holdings, except when the area is large or the tenancy is of some special kind.

4. Optional Registration affecting immoveable property.—The following statement shows the numbers of deeds affecting immoveable property presented for registration during the last four triennial periods of which the registration was optional:—

YEAR.	Instruments of sale or exchange of value less than Rs. 100.	Instruments of mortgage of value less than Rs. 100.	Instruments of lease for one year or less.	Awards (section 17, clause 2).	Other instruments registered under section 18, clauses (a) and (b).	Miscellaneous documents other than certified copies of decrees and orders of Courts. 1898-99	1,408	243,652	17 726	38	8,631	4,391	30	275,876
Total 1896-97 to 1898-99 ...	4,897	757,270	51,176	109	26,251	14,052	86	853,831

The most numerous class of deeds under this head is that of instruments of mortgage of value less than Rs. 100. The increase in the number of such registrations is very marked, the total of 757,270 reached in the last period being more than double that attained in the first of the four periods. The largest total during the last three years is that for 1897-98, and this was to be expected. The large figure for 1898-99 shows, however, that the increase in the preceding year was not entirely attributable to the famine. The recognition by the people of the advantage which registration confers probably accounts for the increasing number of these documents presented for registration, and the same explanation may be offered for the increase under the head of leases for one year or less and miscellaneous documents.

5. Registrations not affecting immoveable property.—The following statement furnishes figures for the last four triennial periods. Corresponding figures are also given for wills and authorities to adopt:—

YEAR.	REGISTRATIONS AFFECTING MOVEABLE PROPERTY.					Number of wills (section 18, clause e) registered in book III.	Written authorities to adopt other than those conferred by will, book III.
	Compulsory.	Optional.
	Instruments of gift of moveable property.	Instruments of sale, &c., of moveable property.	Obligations for the payment of money (section 18, clause f).	All other documents registered under section 18, clause f.	Total of registrations in book IV affecting moveable property.

1893-94 to 1895-96	1,652	17,896	330,460	150,886	500,894	7,237	63
1896-97	687	6,492	120,062	55,160	182,427	2,367	19
1897-98	602	7,183	128,528	53,676	189,989	2,245	20
1898-99	603	6,247	105,300	52,621	164,771	2,191	13
Total 1896-97 to 1897-98 ...	1,892	19,922	353,890	161,483	537,187	6,803	52

The only class of deeds under this head of which registration is compulsory is that of instruments of gift, the obligation to register being imposed in their case by the Transfer of Property Act. The number of such deeds shows an increase in the last triennial period, but some falling off in the past two years. It is remarkable that out of the 603 deeds registered during the past year, 310 were presented in the Dacca district. The majority of these related to gifts of jewels by Muhammadans to their wives at marriage.

The bulk of the documents under this head consists of obligations for the payment of money. The increase is steady, the fall in the past year being the natural consequence of agricultural prosperity. It is reported, however, that in some districts deeds of this kind are now less resorted to than formerly, and that security is now more generally required for loans. The very marked increase noted above in optional registrations of mortgages of small value is probably in some measure due to the substitution of that class of deed for the simple bond without security.

The number of wills presented for registration shows a tendency to decline, as is also the case with authorities to adopt. The number of wills deposited in sealed covers remains small. It has been found that of the wills deposited in this manner many lie unopened long after the death of the testator, whose wishes may thus remain unfulfilled. The question whether action should be taken to bring the existence of such wills to the notice of the persons presumably interested or whether the wills should be opened if they are not claimed, has been considered, and the Government of India have decided that it must be left to testators to make their own arrangements to cause effect to be given to wills thus deposited. There are obvious objections to any interference on the part of the Government in the matter.

6. Inspections.—The total number of inspections made during the year 1898-99 was 1,423, and this shows some improvement over the corresponding figure for the last year of the preceding triennial period. At the instance of this Government, the Government of India in 1897 sanctioned the conversion of the two appointments of Special Inspectors on salaries of Rs. 700 and Rs. 500, respectively, into three appointments, having attached to them the pay of Rs. 500, Rs. 400, and Rs. 300, respectively. During the year 1898-99, out of 428 offices open 296 were inspected by the Special Inspectors. The Lieutenant-Governor is disappointed and dissatisfied, especially with the small number of inspections done by the third Inspector, and he expects a marked improvement in the present year. The first Inspector must also inspect a far larger number of offices instead of repeating inspections of particular offices. Inspections by Special Sub-Registrars attached to each district involve their absence from the head-quarters stations, and difficulty frequently arises in arranging for the registration duties of their sub-districts during their absence. With the view of obviating this inconvenience, and enabling the Special Sub-Registrar to perform his inspection duties with greater regularity, joint offices have been created at some head-quarters stations. The Sub-Registrar of these, having concurrent jurisdiction with the Special Sub-Registrar, is able to perform his ordinary registration work during his absence.

7. Value of Property transferred under registered deeds.—The aggregate value of immoveable property transferred by registered documents during the triennial period was Rs. 61,98,73,218, as compared with Rs. 52,02,11,989 during the preceding triennial period, the corresponding figures for moveable property being Rs. 7,74,02,786 against Rs. 7,20,69,951 in the preceding period. This increase is mainly due to the transactions of the first year of the period, a decrease having occurred in the two last years.

8. It was noted in the Resolution on the last triennial report that there had been a very marked decrease in the number of registrations under sections 12 (permanent tenures) and 18 (holdings at fixed rates) of the Bengal Tenancy Act, the number having fallen from 79,109 in 1886-87 to 14,780 in 1895-96. The last year of the period now under review shows a further decline, the total being 13,083. The discontinuance of registration of transfers of occupancy holdings, which is not authorised by the Act, partly accounts for the decrease, but these provisions are unpopular alike with landlord and tenant. The landlords are unwilling to accept the small fees, or fear that acceptance might be construed into admission of adverse rights, while the tenants object to pay the fees, as they are required still to pay salami for mutation of names in the landlord's office. The provisions of section 176 of the Act, which relates to the registration of encumbrances, are practically inoperative. Resort was had to registration under this section in two cases only during the year.

9. Registration in Calcutta.—Registration in Calcutta calls for notice. The subjoined figures show the numbers of deeds registered in the town of Calcutta during the last two triennial periods:—

	Total of compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property.	Total of optional registrations affecting immoveable property.	Total of registrations affecting moveable property.
1	2	3	4
1893-94	3,885	64	557

1898-99	3,[illegible]20	77	548
Total ...	11,628	210	1,822

It will be seen that the total of compulsory registrations affecting immoveable property for the second period shows some falling off as compared with that for the first period. The following remarks of the Registrar of Calcutta regarding the large decline in registration in the past year may be quoted:—

"The past year was a bad year for Calcutta offices. The presentations here depend a great deal upon the trade of the place. Circumstances combined and brought about results greatly detrimental to the interests of the mercantile community. The general feeling of uncertainty and distrust in the fluctuating rates of exchange is the principal item. Next may be noted the influx of English capital in the several departments of trade in India, which is gradually reducing the number of companies out in India, and consequently a fewer number of deeds are registered here. The system of amalgamated tea and other companies is a new feature in Indian trade, and in a few of these newly consolidated companies several Indian companies have been absorbed. The last cause is the plague scare, which has to some extent frightened the lower classes out of town, and the want of labourers and the high price of labour are indirectly affecting trade."

10. Working of Act III (B.C.) of 1895.—The Inspector-General of Registration has submitted a separate report on the working of the Bengal Land Records Maintenance Act, III of 1895. The system provided by the Act for the registration of mutations of tenancies has had little success The matter is dealt with in the Revenue Department, and need not be discussed here.

11. Registration of Muhammadan Marriages and Divorces.—The following statement shows the working of Act I (B.C.) of 1876 during the last twelve years:—

The Marriage Registrars are also appointed Kasis under Act XII of 1880. Forty-five new offices were opened during the triennial period under review. The success of the Act varies much in different districts, the interest taken in its working by the Registrars and the adverse influence of the village mullas or priests, being the main factors. It would appear that the Act is, on the whole, gaining ground. The fact, however, that 29 offices return no registration at all is distinctly unsatisfactory, and the Inspector-General will do well, as he proposes, to remind the Registrars that it is their duty to move about, and explain to the people the object and advantage of the Act. The largest number of ceremonies registered under the Act was in 1895-96. The total for the last triennial period, however, exceeds that for the preceding period, and the reduction in 1897-98 appears to be correctly attributed by the Inspector-General of Registration to the fact that in years of agricultural distress marriages are less frequent, and the people are also less able to pay the fees under the Act, and forego registration, which is optional.

12. The thanks of the Lieutenant-Governor are due to Khan Bahadur Delawar Hosaen Ahmed for his administration of the Department. The names of the officers favourably mentioned by the Inspector-General will be noted by the Appointment Department of Government.

ORDER.—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Inspector-General of Registration, for information and guidance.

Ordered also that extract paragraphs 2 and 3 of the Resolution be forwarded to the Revenue Department of this office, for information and necessary action.

Ordered also that a copy of the Resolution, together with a copy of the report, be submitted to the Government of India, in the Home Department, for information.

Ordered also that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

C. W. BOLTON,

General Summary.—The general and heavy rainfall noticed in last week's report occurred in Bengal Proper and Orissa. In Bengal it did considerable good to the standing crops, which are now sure to be at least fair, and in most districts good. In Orissa, Cuttack and Balasore will enjoy excellent crops, while those in Puri and Angul have been greatly benefited. In the Chota Nagpur Division the continued drought is causing injury to the rice crop, which is expected to be poor, and in the Patna Division it is injuring the unirrigated upland rice and retarding the sowing of the spring crops. Prices are generally steady; in Orissa and Chota Nagpur they are somewhat easier than before. Cattle-disease is reported from a few districts. Fodder is generally sufficient.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h., 10h., 16h., and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard, Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

o, overcast; g, gloomy; p, passing temporary showers; d, drizzling rain; △, dew; ≡, fog.

A DICTIONARY OF THE ECONOMIC PRODUCTS OF INDIA.

BY DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are ready at the Office of the Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the Index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross-references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product, even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal 8vo. pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G.; Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI (which consists of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI); but a tenth volume has been issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index is practically a Glossary of the Vernacular and European names of the plants, animals, and minerals of India, and, as such, is a work of reference, which, it is hoped, will prove of considerable value.

Index to ditto ditto, 8vo. Rs. 2. (4a.)

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

SECTION 143 of the Army Act (44 & 45 Vict., c. 58) exempts certain officers, soldiers and other persons, and certain animals, baggage and carriages belonging or attached to the Army, from the payment of certain tolls, and the provision is applicable to India in common with the rest of Her Majesty's dominions. In the Indian Statute-book, however, there are several enactments on the same subject; and these, while they provide for exemption from the payment of tolls of the classes referred to in the Army Act, do so in favour of persons more or less different from those indicated in that Act. Moreover, there are some Acts of the Indian legislatures which authorize the levy of tolls of the same classes as those described in the English Statute, but which either contain no exempting clauses at all or merely contain clauses empowering the Executive to allow exemptions.

2. In these circumstances, it has been decided to legislate. In the case of those Indian enactments which contain lists of exempted persons and property, legislation is necessary in order to remove the conflict which at present exists between them and the Army Act The latter would of course prevail if the conflict were brought to the notice of the Courts; but, so long as the Indian enactments remain as they now are, it is probable that full effect may not always in practice be given to the Army Act. In the case, too, of the remaining enactments of the Indian legislatures above mentioned, it is not unlikely that the provisions of s. 143 of the Army Act may be overlooked, tolls being levied under the local law in cases in which their levy is in reality prohibited by Parliament.

3. The present Bill reproduces s. 143 of the Army Act, except sub-section (2), which does not apply to India, and amplifies its provisions so as to cover certain additional exemptions, all inconsistent provisions to be found in the Indian Statute-book being at the same time repealed. Section 22 of the Indian Councils Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict., c. 67), prevents the repeal of s. 143 of the Army Act by the Governor General's Legislative Council, but it is believed that there is nothing to prevent that Council from re-enacting the section, and, in doing so, extending the list of persons and property to be exempted from payment tolls. The list now given in the Bill is a provisional one only. It requires careful consideration, and attention is, therefore, specially invited to its details.

4. The contents of the Bill are explained at length in the annexed Notes on Clauses.

The 19th October, 1899. C. M. RIVAZ.

Notes on Clauses.

Clause 2.—Several of the definitions set forth in this clause are taken from the Army Act. The portions which differ from, or do not appear at all in, that Act are, as far as possible, printed in italics.

The definitions of "Command" and "General Officer of the Command" are new, and are required for the purposes of clause 10 of the Bill.

The definition of "ferry" is merely formal. In regard to the exclusion of ferries which are comprised in the definition of "railway" in s. 3 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (IX of 1890), it may be explained that the tolls imposed on ferries by or under the various Indian enactments in force are apparently not leviable on ferries which are "used for the purposes of the traffic of a railway and belong to, or are hired or worked by, the authority administering the railway".

The definition of "horse" is taken from s. 190 (10) of the Army Act, some verbal alterations being made which do not affect the substance.

The definition of "Indian Reserve Forces" is new, that of "reserve forces" in s. 190 (9) of the Army Act being inapplicable to India.

The definition of "landing-place" includes piers, wharves and quays, which are mentioned in s. 143 of the Army Act and in several of the Indian enactments, and jetties and stages, which are mentioned in some Indian enactments.

The definition of "local corps under the Government of India" is new, being introduced in connection with clause 3 of the Bill.

Statutory tolls are leviable in British India by (1) the Government, (2) District Boards, District Councils, Local Boards, Municipalities and Port Trusts, and (3) Railway Companies. The term "public authority" has been employed in the Bill to designate all these bodies, and is defined accordingly. It has been made to include those railway companies only which levy tolls under s. 4 of the Indian Guaranteed Railways Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict., c. 41), or s. 51 of the Indian Railways Act, 1890 (IX of 1890), tolls levied under either of these enactments being covered by s. 143 of the Army Act, but not tolls levied by railway companies independently of them.
